President's Letter
January 23, 2009

Dear Members,

I pen this letter three days after President Barack Obama's inauguration, hoping to read your haiku on the historic event. Here, it snowed while Lynn and I watched the inauguration on television.

It was a wonderful experience to fellowship with other haiku poets at the HSA Winter Quarterly Meet-ing, which the North Carolina Haiku Society hosted in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, on the weekend of December 5-7, 2008. Bob Moyer, Dave Russo and I organized the program. Roberta Beary and Richard Krawiec taught engaging workshops. Roberta also discussed how she ordered the poems for her award-winning book, The Unworn Necklace. In addition, Roberta presented a reading of her haiku. Fleur de Lisa, an a cappella group, sang songs they had composed, based on haiku by Roberta and other regional poets. I read and performed selections of Richard Wright's haiku from his book, Haiku: This Other World. The highlight was when the ABES students, whom Bob Moyer taught how to write haiku, read their haiku at the Associated Artists Gallery before an overflowing crowd. [For details of Bob's students' work, see Teacher Feature.] There also was a tour of the Reynolda House and splendid meals during the weekend.

On Saturday morning, December 6, 2008, Johnye Strickland and I, representing the Executive Com-mittee, held a productive meeting. Consequently, I announced the name of the honoree for the Sora Award, which will be presented at the HSA Spring Meeting, in Eugene, Oregon. I also announced the winners of the 2008 Harold G. Henderson Award and the 2008 Gerald Brady Senryu Award. In addition, I read haiku from Frogpond in honor of the HSA 40th Anni-versary; read a condolence letter from Dr. Doreen King, General Secretary of The British Haiku Society, regarding the death of William J. Higginson; and also read her letter congratulating The Haiku Society of America for its 40th Anniversary. Most importantly, I announced the results of the election for this year's officers.

Throughout this month, the Executive Committee has been working on pertinent issues via e-mail, including details for this year's HSA Members' Anthology. To that end, I've appointed Charlie Trum-bull as editor of the anthology. He has selected Lidia Rozmus and Joe Kirschner as co-editors.

On another note, Ce Rosenow has organized a great program for the HSA Spring Meeting, which will be held on March 6-8, 2009, at the University of Oregon, in Eugene, Oregon. It certainly appears to be a promising haiku gathering.

Finally, I hope to see many of you in Oregon. If you're interested in attending the National Meeting in New York City, then please reserve September 12, 2009, on your calendar. Please see Johnye Strickland's report, regarding this year's meetings and the voting at the recent December 2008 meeting. Thank you very much for electing me again to work with you as I serve as your president.

All the best,

Lenard D. Moore
Minutes of the 4th Quarterly Meeting
The Haiku Society of America held its 4th Quarterly Meeting of 2008 in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, March 5-7, 2008. The President, Lenard D. Moore, and Newsletter Editor Johnye Strickland held an Executive Committee meeting while other participants were enjoying the Saturday morning ginko in Reynolda House at Reynolda Gardens.

President Moore welcomed everyone to the Business Meeting at 1:30p.m. in Brookstown Inn in Winston-Salem. He announced that the Executive Committee had selected Charles Trumbull as the recipient of the 2008 Sora Award, for service over time to the Haiku Society of America, and that the award would be presented to Charlie in person at the 1st Quarterly Meeting of 2009 in Eugene, Oregon. [Details of the Eugene meeting will be found at the end of the National News.]

Results of the election of Officers and Regional Coordinators was reported: all candidates on the ballots were elected except for the RC position in Alaska. Mark Arvid White received 3 write-in votes, which makes his election unanimous as the replacement for Cindy Zackowitz. The President reported that Miriam Borne had announced her resignation as RC for the Northeast Metro area after the Nominating Committee, chaired by Ce Rosenow, had completed its work and the ballots were already being printed. Rita Gray has agreed to take the job, and she will be appointed by the President for 2009. The President also announced winners of the Henderson, Brady, Einbond, and Virgilio Contests. [Additional information appears in Contest Results. The winning poems will be published in the next issue of Frogpond.]

Charles Trumbull has been appointed Editor of the 2009 Members’ Anthology. He will be assisted by Joe Kirschner and Lidia Rozmus. [More information about the anthology will be found at the end of National News.]

This year marks the 40th Anniversary of the founding of The Haiku Society of America by Leroy Kanterman and Harold G. Hender-son. In honor of this occasion, three of the four Quarterly Meetings have included readings from past issues of Frogpond. At the New York City meeting in September, Leroy Kan-terman was introduced as one of the founders. Those present expressed their appreciation to him for his efforts on behalf of haiku poets in North America. President Moore announced that the commissioned Fortieth Anniversary Anthology reprint of the winning poems of the Brady and Henderson Awards would not be available, as previously announced, before the end of the year.

Roberta Beary, who with Ellen Compton edited dandelion clocks, the 2008
Members’ Anthology, reported that the pre-ordered copies had been mailed, and that additional copies were available for purchase at the meeting.

The Society received two letters from the British Haiku Society, along with a poem by Doreen King of the BHS which was read aloud by Roberta Beary.

Under Other Business, Johnye Strickland explained that the Executive Committee was discussing the problem of having Quarterly Meetings. President Moore was having difficulty finding hosts for two of the 2009 meetings, and rising transportation costs as well as the general state of the economy are deterring even EC members from attending four meetings a year. A suggestion was made that we reduce the number of meetings, but Johnye pointed out that the By-laws require four, and that any attempt to revise the By-laws is usually met with little support. Attorney Roberta Beary suggested that it was not necessary to amend the By-laws in order to change the number of meetings for the coming year. We could vote to suspend the rule for the year, and remain legal. Being thus enlightened, Johnye made a motion to suspend the requirement for 2009, and just have two meetings. The motion was seconded by Tom Heffernan, and passed unanimously.

President Moore presented gift boxes of Mount Olive Pickles to Bob Moyer and Dave Russo for their work in helping organize the Winter Quarterly Meeting of HSA in Winston-Salem.

The Business Meeting concluded with a memorial reading of poems by, and for, the renowned poet, scholar, teacher and friend, William J. Higginson, whose death occurred October 11, 2008.

Secretary’s Report: Part II

I am honored to be chosen as your HSA Secretary for 2009.

First, I would like to thank Lane Parker, HSA Secretary for the past two years, for his kind assistance. He has done so much to help me learn how to do this job. There are a lot of responsibilities, and he has been showing me the ropes since October.

Second, for those of you who do not know me, I have made my living as a freelance technical writer and editor since 1995. I have been writing haiku and tanka only since 2004, so I am still somewhat of a novice. As secretary, I will have a wonderful opportunity to rub shoulders with hundreds of experienced writers who share my interests. I look forward to that!

Finally, if you need any HSA membership service, please do not hesitate to get in touch with me. The best way to reach me is by e-mail: daveb99@efn.org.

Here are some HSA statistics for you. At the end of 2008, we had 743 members. Today we have 459 paid-up members for 2009. For paid memberships, there are 34 new members and 425 renewing members. The figure of 459 probably is low. Unfortunately, we are a little behind in processing all the new/renewal forms because the HSA Secretary position is in transition. The actual number of paid members may be closer to 500.

If you haven’t renewed your membership for 2009, then let this “courtesy copy” of the February 2009 Newsletter be your gentle reminder. You can get a membership form online at http://www.hsa-haiku.org, or by contacting me. My mailing address is:

Dave Baldwin, HSA Secretary
14573 N.E. 35th St. C-103
Bellevue, WA 98007

Dues for regular membership are $33 in the United States, $35 in Canada, and $45 elsewhere in the world. Seniors and students pay $30. Special memberships are Friend (over $33), Donor ($50 +), and Sponsor ($100 +).

Let me say thank you to all members who included holiday greeting cards and other personal notes (and haiku!) along with their membership forms and dues. And a special thanks to the members who made donations to HSA. Your generosity is much appreciated!

Happy new year and good writing to all.

2nd Quarterly HSA Meeting 2009

The Second Quarterly HSA Meeting will be held in New York, New York on September 12, 2009, at the Tenri Cultural Institute, 43A West 13th Street (between 5th and 6th Avenues).
Details of the program will be available in the May/June 2009 Newsletter and on the HSA website: http://www.hsa-haiku.org/

[There will only be two national HSA meetings in 2009. See Minutes of the 4th Quarterly Meeting of 2008 for details about the change. Ed.]

Time to Submit Your Work to the HSA Members’ Anthology 2009

In 2009, for the 16th consecutive year, the HSA will publish a members’ anthology. You are cordially urged to participate!

This is a wonderful opportunity to examine the work of a cross-section of HSA poets—who are among the best writers of haiku in English—and to see your work in print. The HSA members’ anthology makes a great gift for family and friends! Please consider ordering several copies.

Anthology editors are Joseph Kirschner, Lidia Rozmus, and Charles Trumbull.

Theme: This year’s anthology will have a theme: geographical haiku.

Each haiku selected will name or pertain to a specific geographical location—that is, a place you could actually pinpoint on a map. This could be the poet’s home or workplace, a vacation spot, a historical monument—any geographical location as long as it’s specific. Any place in the world is fine. The place need not be actually named in the text of the haiku, but we do want to know the exact place you had in mind when you wrote the haiku. Here are some examples of the kind of haiku and specific geographical information we’re looking for:

Kofuku-ji yesterday’s incense
in the morning air
Kofuku Temple, Nara, Japan
(Kathleen O’Toole)

from the air
Ohio as I remember it endless clouds
over Hudson, Ohio (Kirsty Karkow)

prairie morning —
only bluebells
only sky
near Oakes, North Dakota (Billie Wilson)

As in these poems, in addition to submitting the text of the haiku, please be sure to tell us the exact place you had in mind for the haiku. (These haiku are from last year’s HSA members’ anthology, Dandelion Clocks, and are used here only as examples.)
Submissions:

Each member in good standing of the Haiku Society of America may submit up to five haiku or senryu, from which at least one (and possibly more) will be selected for inclusion. No haiga, haibun, tanka, etc. please.

All submissions must be sent by snail mail. Send up to five haiku or senryu (no tanka, haibun, etc.). Please put all five haiku on one sheet with your name, address, and e-mail address at the top.

For each haiku, indicate the specific geographical location referred to in the text (as in the samples above).

New work is preferred, but previously published haiku/senryu are acceptable. If a haiku has been published previously, please provide the publication information (book or journal, volume and issue number, and date).

You will be notified by e-mail which of your haiku has/have been selected. If you do not have an e-mail address but wish to be notified, please include an SASE (non-US residents, an SAE and an IRC).

Notifications of selection will be sent by June 15.

Purchasing copies: The number of copies printed will be determined by the number of copies advance-ordered. Thus, we strongly suggest that you order your copies when you submit your haiku. The cost is US$20.00/copy postpaid in North America (add $3.00 postage elsewhere). Remit in US-dollar checks made out to “Haiku Society of America” or cash.

Submission checklist:

✓ one page, with name, address, and e-mail address at the top
✓ up to five haiku/senryu
✓ the specific geographical location of each haiku
✓ previous publication information
✓ number of copies of the anthology being ordered ✓ US dollar check made out to “Haiku Society of America” or cash
✓ SASE to receive selection information
✓ all mailed to Charles Trumbull PO Box 7046 Evanston, IL 60204-7046 USA

Questions? If these instructions are not clear, or if you have other questions, contact Charles Trumbull by e-mail at trumbullc@comcast.net or at the PO box address above.

Matthew, a young man interested in haiku, has joined the Bangor Haiku Group. He showed up unannounced at our January meeting where we read and discussed our haiku and those from a selection of current haiku journals.

Our winter event on February 2nd was a reprise of last year’s ginko at the Audubon Society’s Fields Pond. We encounter again the same-but-different frozen pond and snowy fields. A snowmobile track, however, led us to a small woods where we stood listening to woodpeckers. On the other side of the woods was a huge lake with a group of ice fisherman and their huts near its center. After the hiking we shared a special Hong Kong-style lunch, including spicy General Tsao’s Chicken made out of tofu, at a Chinese restaurant whose chef I know.

The next evening we had our January Bangor Haiku Group meeting, sharing a few of our haiku and watching the wonderful DVD, HAIKU, The Art of the Short Poem. There were several questions about those interviewed in the DVD and about Haiku North America.

Bruce Ross has a new collection of haibun out shortly, endless small waves. He will be giving a short talk (based on an updated version of his introduction to Haiku Moment appearing in the current issue of the Romanian journal HAIKU) and a short workshop in several cities in Japan in April 2009.

Raffael de Gruttola, Paul David Mena, and Brett Peruzzi of the MetroWestRenkuAssociation will be doing a reading at the Arsenal Center for the Arts on January 22nd in conjunction with a new exhibit called: New Visions. Raffael will also read a solo renku that Peggy McClure, one of the visual artists in the exhibit, has incorporated into one of her larger paintings.
Raffael de Gruttola was invited to give a talk at a benefit for Nick Virgilio on January 25th. The evening, sponsored by the Nick Virgilio Haiku Association, was called I Remember Nick Night. It was held at the Walt Whitman Center in Camden, New Jersey.

Raffael de Gruttola gave a talk at the Kaji Aso Studio on November 22nd in conjunction with photographer Robert Castagna’s Haiga in the Eye of the Camera: Kyoto in Season. The photographic haiga on exhibit were previously presented in Cesenatico, Italy last summer at Casa Moretti in conjunction with Porto dei Poeti, an International Poetry Conference.

The Boston Haiku Society is forthcoming with its fourth chapbook entitled wind flow. Twenty-two poets from the Society are represented. The chapbook will include not only haiku/senryu, but haibun, haiga, tanka, and renku. The editors are Raffael de Gruttola, Judson Evans, and Karen Klein. The sections of the book are entitled “The Here and Now”, “Beyond Borders,” and “Creatures and Seasons.”

In January Raffael de Gruttola printed a small edition of a 36 link postcard renku that he and LeRoy Gorman completed a few years ago entitled unchanging movement. The title is taken from a Zen perception by Basho: fueki ryuko.

On March 11th, Raffael de Gruttola will give a Haiku Workshop entitled Haiku Appreciation: A Writing Workshop for Friends of the Natick Library in conjunction with poetry month at the Library.

As always the Boston Haiku Society meets at the Kaji Aso Studio in Boston on the 3rd Saturday of each month. This is the 21st year of continuous monthly meetings at the Studio. On January 24th members of the Studio and BHS read at the Studio's Japanese New Year's Celebration. The theme for this year's event was entitled embers.

Respectfully submitted, Raffael de Gruttola

In November Wanda Cook and Karen Reynolds were the featured readers at The Spoken Word in Greenfield. They did a dual reading and short presentation on the fundamentals of haiku. We celebrated the holiday season with our annual party at the home of Gloria Ayvazian. The fireplace was lit with the traditional yule log. The centerpiece of the luncheon table was a beautiful chocolate cake with an Issa poem decorating it. Gloria received the attendance award and everyone enjoyed the afternoon festivities.

Wanda Cook and Patricia Harvey designed and handcrafted our second Annual National Haiku Day card, complete with wiggly eyes this year, and sent them to haiku groups across the country.

We are all busy writing poetry this winter with traditional New England weather as inspiration, including an unbelievable ice storm that moved many of us back to 19th century living without electricity -- some of us spent a week without power. It will be interesting to see the poems it generates.

Several Rochester Area Haiku Group (RAHГ) members have won competitions recently. In the August 2008 Shiki online Kukai, Tom Painting took a sixth place with his poem –

Earlier in the year, Pamela A. Babusci (jointly) won 3rd place in the First With Words Inter-national Haiku Online Competition 2008 –

Among the comments were the following: “...an example of a well-crafted poem that invites thought... [It] contained a delicate poignancy, of sabi (Japanese non-sad sadness/aloneness) and I was very moved by this poem....”

Students of Tom Painting made an excellent showing in the 2008 Nicholas Virgilio Haiku Contest, as reported in Frogpond 31:3 –

Our next meeting will be held on March 21 to honor William (Bill) J. Higginson. It was his wish that a brief memorial be held in the spring. Please bring a favorite poem written by Bill, or a brief section of his prose to recite. Please also consider sharing a favorite memory of Bill. John Stevenson and Scott Mason will help us commemorate Bill’s illustrative haiku path. Penny Harter will also be joining us, and Hiro Sato will host a party following the meeting.

This year’s HSA annual meeting will be held in NYC on September 12. We hope many of you will be able to attend.

Alice Gray

Mid-Atlantic Towpath

October Meeting. Kathleen O’Toole and husband John hosted Towpath members Mary Wuest, Ellen Compton, Kristen Deming, Lee Giesecke, Penny Showell, and Roberta Beary. Fonda Bell Miller participated in absentia. Following the round robin haiku readings, poets paused to honor the late Bill Higginson, remembering his many gifts to haiku study and to the haiku community worldwide. Then Ellen passed around a copy of Bill’s 4 Sequences broadsheet, and each person read a haiku from the collection.
The group explored ideas for future programs and discussed the possibility of holding a meeting in a nursing home or retirement community. We noted that a number of people prominent in the literary world, including leaders of the feminist movement of the 60s and 70s, live in such homes nearby, and might welcome a haiku program.

Lee had given us a homework assignment with handouts on counting on, or Japanese sounds, in English-language haiku. We were to write haiku in English using the 5-7-5 form, but counting on instead of English syllables. Several brave poets gave the homework a try, and we agreed that counting on in English is much harder than it looks, with only Fonda making the cut. Next closest, with a count of 4-10-5, was Lee himself, for "sunset / on each piling / a seagull."

December Meeting. Roberta Beary, Ellen Compton, Kristen Deming, Audrey Olberg, Kathleen O'Toole, Penny Showell, and Mary Wuest gathered around Kristen's Christmas tree. The group marked the publication of dandelion clocks, the 2008 HSA Member's Anthology, edited by Ellen and Roberta. Each editor read some of her favorites from the collection, then each read the other's haiku. Members who were present followed with their own poems and took turns reading those of absent members.

Kristen led a lively discussion on the poetic thought of a modern haiku master, the late Yatsuka Ishihara. She spoke about the poet's three basic principles for writing haiku: telling the truth as if it were fiction; introspective shaping; and instant illusion.

Of the first principle Ishihara said, “I believe the basic nature of haiku is humor, that is, expressing the truth as if it were false. Through the expression of truth with humor, a rich space is created to enjoy a wider meaning.”

The second principle, introspective shaping, states that we should not simply “sketch” what we experience, but create something tangible out of reality as it is apprehended by our thoughts. Ishihara believed that we must look inward to bring our feelings and thoughts into the haiku: "You will know your true self by reading your own haiku."

The third pertains to temporary illusion, which could be akin to the immediacy of an experience or inspiration and its elusive nature. In an article about this principle, Shosaku Ohya, a disciple of Ishihara, said that the master spoke of a poet's breath-taking experience as "a sign of matching oneself with a thing or an event one has been looking for all the time. But this event does not appear from nowhere. It is the result of the art of constantly searching for the poetic spirit. . . . when one encounters a scene beyond the human or familiar landscape, his/her poetic spirit is ignited” (Modern Haiku, 30:1, winter-spring 1999, p. 45).

Kristen described Ishihara's generosity in sharing his understanding with other poets and leading them on haiku walks—not just to the local park, but to places around the globe. She distributed handouts on the master's work and thought, and presented each of us with a copy of Red Fuji: Selected Haiku of Yatsuka Ishihara (Santa Fe, NM: From Here Press, 1997). The was translated by Tadashi Kondō and William J. Higginson, and begins with Kristen's essay, "Ishihara Yatsuka, Portrait of a Haiku Master."

Member Highlights. Kristen Deming's haiku was awarded 2nd prize in HSA's 2008 Harold Henderson contest.

A haiku by Fonda Miller appeared as part of Peace Mural by Korean artist Huong. The mural was displayed from early December through January in Georgetown, DC.

Ellen Compton received 1st Honorable Mention for her haibun, "Epitaph," in the Jerry Kilbride Memorial 2008 English-Language Haibun Contest. In the San Francisco International Competition 2008, Ellen was awarded Honorable Mention in the haiku category.

Member News: At a literary arts event sponsored by the Howard County Poetry and Literature Society at the Howard County Conservancy on Sunday, October 5, Tim and daughter Julia Singleton led a children’s program while the adults were listening to readings by a guest poet. They took the kids on a ginko, or nature walk, and then helped them write haiku about their experiences. (See the HPCM scrapbook for a copy of the news article; or visit the Howard County Times archives online at http://www.theviewnewspapers.com/

In addition to Joan Murphy (as reported last time) several other members of HPCM also took Honorable Mention awards in the 2008 Saigyo Tanka Awards competition: Pamela A. Babusci; Kirsty Karkow; and M. Kei. Congratulations to all!

Evanston, Illinois

In the wake of the largest winter storm in a long while, the annual Chi-ku holiday party on December 21 was smaller than it had been in years past. Besides our always gracious hostess, Lidia Rozmus, only seven irrepressible haiku poets ventured out into the cold and snow: Natalia and Igor
Rudychev, Christopher Patchel, Heather
Jagman and husband Arik, Scott Glander, and Charlie Trumbull. The low turnout meant more Glühwein and fine Polish and Russian delicacies for the braver souls. The fun and fine haiku flowed freely. A small sampling of some of those haiku:

- “this too shall pass”
- engraved in gold (Lidia)
- the parrot
- is too green
- for this snowy morning (Igor)

- deep autumn
- a lone hoot
- through the hollow (Chris)

- condo building
- Santa and Mrs. Claus
- outside on a ledge (Heather)

Haiku Northwest

Haiku Northwest news highlights include our first-ever weekend haiku retreat, a new and expanded Web site at http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/, Ruth Yarrow running for the office of Seattle Poet Populist, celebrating the 99th birthday of our oldest member, a holiday potluck, and our usual monthly meetings, each with featured readers. Congrats, too, to two of our members for becoming HSA officers (Carmen Sterba, first vice president; Dave Baldwin, secretary).

Congratulations to Bob Redmond for receiving grants for haiku. Bob reports: “The grants were from the Office of Arts and Culture for $4,000, and from 4Culture, for $3,000, to complete my haiku/haibun manuscript, ‘publish’ selected pieces (related to food) on paper bags in grocery stores, and giving a public reading.” In June of 2008, Bob married Amy Baranski, daughter of Portland haiku poet Johnny Baranski.

October 2, 2008 Meeting

Haiku Northwest gathered at the Bellevue Regional Library. Dejah Léger brought her three-week-old daughter Zöe, who slept through most of the meeting (with burps of approval after certain haiku). Our featured reader was William Scott Galasso:

October 10–12, 2008 Seabeck Haiku Getaway

The highlight of Haiku Northwest’s 20th anniversary year was the retreat we held at the Seabeck Conference Center, on the shores of tidal Hood Canal by the snow-dusted Olympic Mountains. Our theme was “Ordinary Miracles.” Emiko Miyashita, visiting from Japan, gave an introductory talk on haiku (with PowerPoint presentation), a reading from the Gendai Haiku Kyokai anthology, The Haiku Universe for the 21st Century, and a talk on Santoka. We had anonymous workshops, a show-and-tell session by all attendees led by Ruth Yarrow, a nametag contest, silent auction, haiku walks to the beach, lagoon, and woods, and a haibun workshop by Margaret Chula. Alice Frampton performed “The Music of Haiku,” and Michael Dylan Welch showed slides on “Details of Japan” and presented “Fuyoh Observations: Six Lessons from Japanese Haiku.” Christopher Herold’s workshop was “Feathering the Moment: Spontaneous Composition Emanating from Silent Observation.” We also enjoyed pulling random workshop poems and discussion topics from the “Haiku Hat,” and visited Scenic Beach State Park, where Alice Frampton grew up. For details about this extraordinary weekend, please visit http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/seabeck-haiku-getaway. Present for the retreat (31 people) were Nancy Dahlberg, Michael Dylan Welch, Marilyn Sandall, Priscilla Van Valkenburgh, Connie Hutchison, Wes Lund, Becky Turnbull, Angela Terry, Curtis Manley, Terran Campbell, Connie Donleycott, Susan Constable, Ruth Yarrow, Joshua Beach, Laurette Lajoie, Carmi Soifer, Alice Frampton, Karma Tenzing Wangchuk, Amelia Fielden, Nu Quang, Bryson Nitta, Michael Evans, Frances Manley, Christopher Herold, Margaret Chula, David Constable, John Hall, Carole MacRury, Emiko Miyashita, Bethel Prescott, and Ron Tanzi. We look forward to holding our second retreat on the weekend of October 16 to 18, 2009.

Ruth Yarrow was the Haiku Northwest nominee for Seattle Poet Populist (equivalent to poet laureate), which involved several public readings and an online vote. Marilyn Sandall attended the October 27, 2008 reading, and reported that “The performances were fantastic and moving. Ruth ended the evening by demonstrating the power of alternating short-form haiku with silence. Her poems about family, nature, peace, and the city reverberated.” Ruth placed respectably, and gave haiku a voice amid mainstream poetry.

November 6, 2008 Meeting

At the Bellevue Regional Library, we shared the sad news of Bill Higginson’s passing, and each read poems he had written over many decades, and had our usual rounds of haiku reading. Featured reader was Dejah Léger.

November 8, 2008 Special Meeting

Puget Sound haiku poets traveled to Port Townsend for a meeting with the haiku group there. We started with haiku walks to the beaches and to the army bunkers at Fort Worden. After lunch, we moved to Doris Thurston’s home, where we did introductions and shared poems, and collected haiku written in the morning for a kukai. Michael Dylan Welch won the kukai, with a prize of Patricia Donegan’s new book, Haiku Mind. We also remembered Bill Higginson and Bob Major. The afternoon’s highlight was a performance of haiku by the visiting poets, performed by the hosts, using piano, voice, drums, flute, marimba, bottles, wine glasses, and singing bowls. A keepsake pamphlet, Branching Trails, collected poems. We also enjoyed an anonymous workshop, snacks, and much laughter and friendship, and reconvened at Hudson Point Café in Port Townsend for dinner. Photos appear at http://sites.google.com/site/haikunorthwest/photos/2008-11-08-1.

December 4, 2008 Meeting

Our December 4 potluck dinner meeting took place at the Seattle home of Nu Quang, featuring a cake to celebrate Helen Russell’s 99th birthday (actually on November 22). Connie Hutchison unveiled Helen’s new chapbook, Distant Sounds, which the group read aloud in its entirety. Our featured reader was Angela Terry:

January 8, 2009 Meeting

Despite our unusual holiday snowfalls, Haiku Northwest began its 21st year at the Bellevue Regional Library. We experimented with the idea of having a “Sister Haiku City,” featuring the Boston Haiku Society. At our request, Raffael de Gruttola sent the latest Boston Haiku Society News, which we read aloud. We sent our poems to share at their next meeting. Our featured reader was Carole MacRury, reading from her new book, In the Company of Crows.

Northern California

Haiku Poets of Northern California’s fall quarterly meeting took place on October 26, 2008 at Fort Mason in San Francisco. Present were the following people: Susan Antolin, Jerry Ball, George Baker, Garry Gay, Carolyn Hall, Bernice Hunold, Marianna Monaco, Renée Owen, Linda Papanicolaou, Shulamith Rubinfien, Michael Sheffield, Laurie Stoelting, Ebba Story, Jill Tallmer, Paul O. Williams, and Joan Zimmerman. Ebba Story introduced our featured reader, Marianna Monaco, “a storyteller with a keen sense of wit and humor, and a profound understanding of our relationship to nature.” From Marianna’s reading:

bifocals—
the double pleasure of seeing you again

On a somber note, Garry announced the passing of Bill Higginson, and others in the group also expressed gratitude for the influence Bill’s work had on their development as haiku poets. Garry then congratulated Carolyn Hall for winning first place in the autumn haiku collection contest awarded by True Vine Press. Her winning chapbook In and Out of Shadow was available for purchase at the meeting. Garry said it was great to see Ebba back and in good health. Ebba will resume her post as editor of Mariposa, and will collaborate on the editing with Susan Antolin.

After a break for refreshments, Carolyn Hall led a haiku workshop on truth in haiku based on an article she wrote for Frogpond (Volume XXVIII, Number 3, 2005). Carolyn opened with an anecdote about her relationship with her siblings following her mother’s death. She found that in writing about her experiences in a fictional context, the farther she strayed from the facts of what had taken place, the closer she got to the emotional truth of the conflict. Carolyn proposed that the same principle may apply to haiku as well. The purpose of haiku, she said, is to touch us at our core. We put haiku out there to share an emotional response with others. It is often necessary to change the literal truth in order to communicate the full impact of the moment in a successful haiku.

The winter quarterly meeting was held on January 18, 2009. Present were the following people: Fay Aoyagi, Susan Antolin, Jerry Ball, George Baker, Tom Boynton, Chuck Brickley, Susan Diridoni, Garry Gay, Carolyn Hall, Bernice Hunold, Renée Owen, Linda Papani-colaou, David Rice, Michael Sheffield, Ebba Story, Carolyn Talmadge, John Thompson, Paul O. Williams, and Jim Wilson. Our featured readers, John Thompson and Garry Gay, read from their 2008 book of rengay, The Unlocked Gate. The reading provided a rare opportunity to hear a generous selection of rengay read in the voices of two long-time practitioners (one of whom is the founder) of the form.

Garry noted that this meeting marks the 20th anniversary of HPNC, and that five of the founding members were present: Garry Gay, Paul Williams, Jerry Ball, John Thompson, and Carolyn Talmadge. Garry passed around a copy of the first issue of Woodnotes (the predecessor journal to Mariposa) edited by Paul O. Williams and Vince Tripi. Garry then spoke for a few minutes about the history of the organization, including the informal gatherings of poets at Garry’s photo studio in San Francisco at that time as well as at restaurants, book stores and poets’ homes. Garry remembered a breakfast gathering of poets at John Thompson’s home and later a meeting of about 30 poets at Jerry Kilbride’s apartment. As the gatherings of poets grew, they decided to form a committee to formalize the organization, and Garry was nominated to be the first president.
John Thompson, our contest coordinator for the fall contest, announced the winners and spoke about the positive experience he had in working on the contest and contacting the winners. The winning poems will be published in the spring issue of Mariposa.

In other contest news, Renée Owen won first place for haibun in the contest run by the Central Valley Haiku Club. Renée passed around a flier with information on the Redwood Coast Whale and Jazz Festival, which will feature Japanese poetry and music in Gualala on April 11. Renée will read her work accompanied by music at the festival. Renée also announced that Jane Reichhold will be speaking in San Francisco at the Commonwealth Club on April 23rd.

David Rice passed around a copy of his recently published (and beautifully produced) book of tanka, Kindle of Green, written together with Cherie Hunter Day. The tanka were written in linked form over a number of years (6 tanka per linked strand) and then rearranged and joined to form this book.

Jim Wilson, who served as the tanka judge for the fall contest, presented a talk on tanka. He began with an overview of the history of the form and then encouraged questions and discussion. He spoke about the differences between haiku and tanka, and emphasized that tanka are not only longer, but more lyrical than haiku. Jim read (and sang) several of his own poems. He emphasized the musical quality of tanka and said he always has a melody in his head when he writes them. Jim encouraged everyone to explore the wealth of inspiration in American music, especially blues and folk tunes, and to experiment with a variety of poetic devices in writing tanka.

Central Valley

On October 4th, 2008, the Central Valley Haiku Club gathered at the Geikkeikan Sake Factory for their annual Fall Reading and meeting. Members and presenters in attendance were Amy Whitcomb, Mark Hollingsworth, Yvonne Cabalona, Bill Owen, and Leslie Rose. Member Ricardo DeBernardi acted as club photographer for the occasion.

Amy Whitcomb gave a wonderful introduction to an overflow audience of 36, preparing them to hear the various poetic forms. With the koi stocked lake as a background the group members shared a wonderful variety of haiku, senryu, haibun, tanka, and tan renga, which were all well received.

After the reading group members held a brief meeting.

Under old business, Yvonne announced that the Annual Jerry Kilbride Haibun
Contest deadline has passed and judging has begun on an exciting set of international entries. After judging is completed the first place prize of $100 and second place prize of $50 will be awarded and those haibun will be published in the CVHC's upcoming linked haibun chapbook.

Mark announced that our website has been updated.

The club members have been busy, busy, busy and have earned some bragging rights. Look for their poems in the following publications:

-Amy Whitcomb announced that she will have a long haibun appearing in the winter edition of Modern Haiku. One of her tanka will also be published in an upcoming Bottle Rockets.

-Yvonne Cabalona has a haibun that will be appearing in Bottle Rockets and she has 3 haiku that have been accepted by Mariposa.

-Mark Hollingsworth will have a haiku appearing in the next issue of Mariposa.

-Bill Owen and Amy Whitcomb have a tan renga that will be in the next issue of Frogpond, and Bill will also have 2 haibun and a haiku appearing in that same publication. In addition, Bill will have 4 haiku in an upcoming Mariposa.

Last but not least, before adjourning to sample some of Gekkeikan's fine sakes, the group set up our next meeting time, which will be the yearly Christmas/End of the Year gathering. This year it was decided that we will be having that meeting at the Eastern Empire Bar and Grill on Howe Ave. in Sacramento. That meeting is scheduled for Saturday, December 13th at noon.

On Saturday, December 13, 2008, the 20 CVHC held their annual holiday meeting at the Eastern Empire Restaurant in Sacramento. Sharing in the good food and laughter were Amy Whitcomb, Yvonne Cabalona, Ricardo de Bernardi, Bill Owen and Leslie Rose.

Under old business, Yvonne reported that the judges for the Jerry Kilbride Haibun contest had not, as yet, reported on the winners of this year's contest, but their decisions would be announced shortly.

Under new business the idea was proposed that next year the end-of-the-year meeting should be changed to a beginning-of-the-year meeting in January due to the crush of holiday events in December.

Several of the members announced that they will be appearing in print in the new year in various publications: Yvonne has a poem in the latest HSA anthology and Amy has a haibun that may be read on Contemporary Haibun Online and another appearing in Modern Haiku.

Before adjourning the date for the next meeting was set for February 28th, from 1:00-5:00 at the North Highlands/Antelope branch of the Sacramento Library.

On Sunday, January 4, 2009, The Southern California Haiku Study Group celebrated a post-holiday party-meeting-potluck at Wendy and Tom Wright’s home in Naples by the water. The twenty members brought New Year’s haiga to share and exchange. Some were in the form of postcards that could be mailed, and some were small drawings or photos.

Along with the camaraderie and food and drinks, needless to say we were all in great spirits. It was our best fiesta-time for the year even though the temperature was cold, sometimes dipping into the 30s at night. Thanks to the Wrights.

We are also looking forward to the haiku critique workshop/winter ginko walk to be held at the Earl Burns Miller Japanese Garden, California State University, Long Beach. It will be held Sunday, February 1, 2009. This is always a special day and all are welcome to attend.

Here are some of the haiku from the haiga party at Wendy and Tom’s.

Looking for the Moment – Haiku, Theater, and Play

Robert Moyer

As a teacher and director of children, I do not do theater with children; I use the work of Viola Spolin to reach through the practices and philosophy of theater to touch upon the creativity of the student. I have worked with the students involved in this project each year of their schooling. Through years of applying this process with them and others, I have discovered that the presence and attention to circumstantial detail which results in the theatrical moment addresses the haiku moment as well. I drew upon those discoveries in preparing this program, of which the December 5 reading is one part.

I also drew upon a number of excellent resources to prepare materials for the two workshops that led to the selected haiku. Primary among them was Patricia Donegan’s book Haiku (Tuttle Press), and the Haiku Society of America Resources for Teachers packet. Using these and my own experience in simple sensory work drawn from acting workshops, I prepared a two-page “playsheet” (I avoid the word “work” in the classroom as much as possible). Those two pages guided my first workshop.

We began, of course, with a brief definition of haiku: Japanese origin, 12-17 syllables, three lines, two parts, season word, all modified by the word “usually.” This qualification breaks down the rigid 5/7/5 template that is part of the North Carolina (and many others) Standard Course of Study (Who writes these things?) taught in the second grade. I also defined the haiku “moment” as something that we feel about nature or human nature that makes us smile, go “ahhh,” or just nod our heads. I also decided that we would only deal with moments which really happened, avoiding imaginary, i.e., school desk haiku. Of all the choices I made, this one seems to have had the most profound effect upon the work that emerged, making it most immediate and not the least precious.

Immediately following, I had the students read the 11 haiku I chose for demonstration. Seven of the choices were poems I have published or am working on; I felt more comfortable talking about poems which I could talk about from inception to inclusion in a journal; that identification proved to be a powerful engine for discussion; the poems ranged among sensory detail, surprise, juxtaposition, contrast, resonance, humor, and concrete.

The second sheet derived from a joint project that each grade and I had shared, what I will term a “curricular ginko.” I took a mask-making workshop with the fourth graders, and went on a field trip to the Reynolda House Art Museum with the fifth grade (the third grade had only one workshop prior to the reading, and were not included). This identification proved as seminal to the experience as the use of my own work in the presentation, bringing an immediacy to the presentation.

The first section was a sensory checklist related to those experiences, including questions about hearing while looking, not seeing, touching, not touching, most memorable thing, favorite thing, etc. I followed that section with a selection of five haiku which I wrote based on that experience, placed in the left hand column. In the right-hand column, I turned those haiku into “prompts” which the students could complete with their own observations: line one and three from my haiku, with a blank line in the middle; my first line, followed by two blank lines; two blank lines followed by my third line; and, of course, three blank lines for their poem. Some children finished in the first workshop; some had already transcended the prompts by the end, and produced their own. I left the “playsheets” with them to work on if they had not finished.

In the second workshop, I simply brought in two pages of haiku: one a selection of 12 haiku by high school students taken from the HSA folder, and the other 27 haiku by North Carolina poets. I asked the students to circle the ones they understood, and put squares around the ones they liked. They then took turns reading their selections, giving us a chance to discuss what they saw, and how they saw it.

This time proved to be the most fertile time of writing for them. I did not make them focus on me while we talked, or even on those reading the haiku. I encouraged them if a poem made them think of an experience they had, to write that down; if they weren’t clear about the experience, they could just tell us about it. We went back and forth from reading and discussion, to people interrupting to read their haiku, to people asking how they could write about a subject.

Out of this marginal chaos (besides some excellent haiku) arose some seminal questions to guide their writing: where did it happen, what did you see, can you say what happened in a sentence, what words don’t you need in that sentence, and where could you break that sentence into two parts. In this atmosphere, everyone could contribute (much like our NCHS meetings) and the student was encouraged to write down what he thought was the best of those suggestions. The results were at the least satisfying, and at best stunning. Everyone wrote something and many wrote multiple examples (and are still writing, as they announce to me each week). Some of which were not included in the reading, but sprung from these sessions:

sit down be quiet
we love you Mrs. Howell

Tekira Conrad, fourth grade hungry waterin’ mouf momma cookin’

Sa’von Milledge, fifth grade

a tree with one leaf
so much wind
so little time

collaboration by Mason Brown and Jared Sink, fifth grade

The following poems are from the (HSA) reading. The prompts are obvious, but so are the strong results from them. I have been taken aback by the enthusiasm and application of the students; they sat for an hour and a half at a time in these workshops. On the other hand, the format I selected allowed me to be as fervently involved as well. No series of workshops has ever demonstrated more clearly the axiom that “discipline is involvement.” Perhaps the strongest lesson I learned in this process is that both the theatrical moment and the haiku moment for children is best addressed by presence and attention to circumstantial detail by the instructor.

Theme: Haiku are to be written in the spirit of the following “Speculation” (Robert Spiess, A Year’s Speculations on Haiku, Modern Haiku Press, 1995):

In haiku the juxtaposition or “confrontation” of entities produces a tension charged with energy that generates an insight, intuition or felt-depth of an aspect of reality; it is a movement, a birth, that leads to a new level of awareness [Prompted in part by a passage of C.G. Jung’s].

Deadline: In hand no later than March 13, 2009.

The poet’s name, mailing address, telephone number, and email address (if any) should appear on one of the three cards, in the upper left-hand corner above the haiku; the other two copies should contain only the haiku.

Please keep a copy of your submission; entries will not be returned. Email submissions are not allowed. Please follow the instructions carefully: entries that are incomplete or that do not comply with the instructions will be discarded.

Entry fee: $1 per haiku, cash or check (US funds); make checks payable to Modern Haiku.

Editor’s Note: Please keep this newsletter in a convenient place to check on contests and conferences. The next one will not come out until June, but updates will be available on the HSA website:

http://www.hsa-haiku.org

Apologies to everyone whose name does not appear in this Membership Update if you have paid your renewal dues. As the Treasurer’s Report indicates, we are a bit behind in our record updating, but we are working on it and should have it done soon.

Apologies also for any mistakes in the newsletter, either of omission or commission. Word and I have reached a temporary truce, but clearly a replacement is needed for both of us.
