From the President

Dear Members:

As we begin 2012, I’d like to say thank you to several people who volunteered for the HSA and have now decided to step down from their positions. Frogpond editor, George Swede, and assistant editor, Anita Krumins, resigned after four wonderful and work-filled years producing our journal. I can’t thank them enough for all of the time and care they put into this important HSA publication.

Peter Meister, Tanya McDonald, Chad Lee Robinson, and Mark White each did an excellent job as regional coordinators but have also decided the time has come to move on. Many thanks to each of you for your work on behalf of the HSA and members in your regions. Additional thanks go to Melissa Allen for her work as editor of the HSA Bulletin. Melissa was instrumental in creating this new e-publication for the HSA. Thanks, as well, to our 2011 membership anthology editors, an’ya and Peter B, for creating an excellent collection of haiku.

I would also like to welcome to several people. Francine Banwarth is the new editor of Frogpond and, as such, an officer on the HSA executive committee. Francine formerly served as HSA 2nd Vice President, and we all look forward to working with her again! A huge welcome to our four new regional coordinators: Terri L. French, Katharine Grubb Hawkinson, Patricia Nolan, and Billie Wilson. Thank you for your willingness to help the HSA membership. Katharine is also the new editor of the HSA Bulletin, and I’d like to say a special thanks for taking on these two roles. This year’s membership anthology editor is Billie Dee. With her background in editing and her eye for design, I know HSA members will be very pleased to see their work in the volume edited by Billie.

Looking ahead to our plans for this year, I am excited about the ways in which we can continue increasing our visibility, especially in literary and academic circles, but also through increased use of social media. For instance, we have a newly revitalized Facebook group and a brand new Facebook page all because of talented work by the new moderators, Jim Aaron and Tim Singleton and by Michael Dylan Welch.

Frogpond is one of our most important means of circulating haiku and articles about haiku to poets, editors, and scholars. We continue to trade subscriptions of Frogpond with other leading literary journals; Frogpond remains listed in the MLA International Bibliography and the Humanities International Complete; and the Library of Congress now has a

Haiku Society of America
Quarterly Meetings for 2012

The Haiku Society of America’s quarterly meetings provide a great opportunity for our members to connect with one another, attend lectures and readings, and explore some of the local literary sights and events in different regions of the country. 2012 is shaping up to be another spectacular year for HSA events. The first quarterly meeting took place in Seattle in February (see page 8 for details). The remaining three meetings are listed below. We hope to see you there!

May 24–27, San Francisco, CA: The second quarterly HSA meeting will take place in conjunction with the American Literature Association conference, where there will be two panels on haiku. The ALA portion of the meeting will be followed by an afternoon of readings and workshops at the O’Hanlon Center for the Arts in Mill Valley hosted by the Haiku Poets of Northern California. See more about the ALA conference on page 7. For details contact Susan Antolin at susantolin@gmail.com.

Sept. 15–16, Fort Worth, Texas: For details contact Cliff T. Roberts, vampire13@aol.com.

Dec. 15–16, Winston-Salem, North Carolina: For details contact Dave Russo, drusso1@mindspring.com.

The HSA also sponsors other regional events, including the annual Seabeck retreat in the Seattle area in October. Look for more information on that event in the next issue of Ripples.
Francine Banwarth Accepts Editorship of Frogpond

In January, George Swede resigned as the editor of Frogpond, and Francine Banwarth agreed to become the new editor. During his tenure, George accomplished so many things with the journal that it is hard to name them all. He made the journal much more visible by listing it in the MLA International Bibliography and Humanities International Complete, made sure it was added to the magazine and listing, Poets & Writers, and maintained and elaborated the listings for Frogpond in the Poet’s Market, Duotrove, Dustbooks as well as started listings in others, including New Pages Magazine. When he discovered that the Library of Congress had no issues after 1994, he made sure that copies were sent so that the catalog is complete. He also increased the size and scope of materials in the journal, and he published the two largest issues in the journal’s history.

George, and assistant editor Anita Krumins, have included their farewell comments in their final issue. The HSA is in their debt for all of their work on Frogpond and on behalf of the HSA.

The HSA is also incredibly fortunate to have Francine Banwarth as the new editor. Francine lives in Dubuque, Iowa, and she began studying and writing haiku in 1988. She has been a member of the HSA since 1989 and served as HSA second vice president from 2008-2011. Francine is also the cofounder of Haiku Dubuque, has guided haiku workshops, and helped organize haiku meetings in Dubuque and at The Foundry Books in Mineral Point, Wisconsin. She has also served on the board of Modern Haiku since 2010. During the last 20 years her haiku and senryu have won awards in a variety of contests and her haiku, senryu, rengay, and haibun have been published in journals, anthologies, and chapbooks, including The River Knows the Way, published by Haiku Dubuque. When asked about becoming the new editor of such an important journal, Francine explained: “I am honored and humbled to have been offered the editorship of Frogpond. The decision to accept was not easy and made only after careful deliberation and long talks with Ce Rosenow, George Swede, my family, my running partner, and myself. I will strive to serve with the same passion and excellence as our former editors, George Swede and Anita Krumins, as well as those who served before them. I am grateful for this opportunity and I thank the HSA board members for their confidence in me. I know that this editorship will ‘take a village,’ and I look forward to working with George and Anita during the transition and to tapping the many talents of the members of the HSA.”

The 2012 Haiku Society of America Members’ Anthology (20th Anniversary Edition!) is Now Open for Submissions

Each year the Haiku Society of America publishes an anthology of haiku and senryu by members, edited and produced by one or more editors appointed by the executive committee. Members who submit work are guaranteed to have one poem selected for publication. The editor for 2012 is Billie Dee.

Deadline: In hand by April 30, 2012.

Theme: “The Sensate World.”

Eligibility: All HSA members.

Submissions: Submit five to ten unpublished or previously published haiku and/or senryu. Our editor, Billie Dee, is interested in both traditional and non-traditional forms of one to three or more lines. For each previously published poem, please include the name of the publication, volume, issue, and year. [example: Frogpond, Vol. 34, No. 3, 2011.] Poems should not have appeared in any other HSA anthology. Electronic submission is highly encouraged.

E-mail Submissions: Send your work to haikuanthology@gmail.com, with “HSA2012: your name, city, state (province), country” in the subject header. [example: Subject: HSA2012: Billie Dee, San Diego, CA, USA]. Submissions should be embedded in the text of the e-mail, single spaced, with one space between each poem. Please do not use columns or tables. If there are special formatting instructions, you may attach your formatted poem as an rtf, txt, or MSWord doc file. Include your mailing address and phone number in the text of your submission.

Postal Submissions: For those with limited access to the internet, submit your poems typed in a single column, five poems per sheet of paper. Please type your name, address, and phone number (and e-mail, if applicable) at the top of each sheet. Mail your submission to: HSA Members’ Anthology, c/o Billie Dee, P.O. Box 3095, San Diego, CA 92163, USA. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope for notification of which poem is selected. International submissions: Unfortunately, International Reply Coupons are no longer accepted by the U.S. Postal Service. Please send a self-addressed First Class International Postcard (http://postcalc.usps.gov/Default.aspx -- select your destination.)

Book Orders: Preordering a copy of the anthology is not required for inclusion, but is encouraged to help offset costs.

Price per copy: $14 U.S., including postage in the United States. Please add $4 postage for Canada and Mexico, $6 outside the North American continent. To expedite your order, a PayPal link is provided on the HSA website announcement: http://www.hsa-haiku.org/member-antohl.htm. If ordering by mail, make checks/money orders payable to “Haiku Society of America” (payment must accompany all orders), and mail to: HSA Members’ Anthology, c/o Billie Dee, P.O. Box 3095, San Diego, CA 92163, USA. Be sure to include your complete shipping address.

Katharine Grubb Hawkinson Takes On Editorship of HSA Bulletin

Earlier this year, Melissa Allen helped the HSA launch its new e-bulletin using Constant Contact. Thanks to Melissa’s efforts, we are now able to reach most of our membership in a timely manner to provide important announcements and information. In late 2011, Melissa passed the editorship on to Katharine Grubb Hawkinson, who sent out her first HSA Bulletin in December.

While still new to haiku, Katharine "Kat" Grubb Hawkinson brings energy and spirit to the Haiku Northwest group. She was social media coordinator for the recent Haiku North America conference in Seattle, and she is the regional coordinator for the Washington region of the Haiku Society of America. While yet to have many haiku published, she is looking forward to learning about and writing more haiku in the future. You can follow Katharine on Twitter @grubbkr.

HSA Launches New Facebook Page and Welcomes Two New Page Monitors

On February 7, the HSA launched its new Facebook page created by Jim Aaron, Tim Singleton, and Michael Dydan Welch. This page will replace the Facebook group that we started last year. The page will carry regular HSA updates and haiku-related topics for discussion. Response has been very positive, and people have been "liking" the page and posting comments since the launch. The HSA is lucky to have Jim and Tim as page monitors.

Jim Aaron, or Peach, his pen name, is a published poet, author, songwriter, musician, engineer, and producer. As a punk in and around San Francisco in the late 70s and early 80s, he was part of the seminal movement that, much like the Beat Poets of the 40s and 50s, rebelled against social conformity and conventional musical traditions. Jim published his first poems in 1975. His most recent work can be seen in 140 and Counting, a collection of the best twitter literature from the first two years of the journal, Seven By Twenty. In his fifth year writing and publishing on his website, HaikuToday, Jim lives with his wife Patti, two greyhounds, one parakeet, and the ghost of a hind-walking cat in Arlington, Virginia.

Tim Singleton is a marketing and communications professional from Columbia, Maryland, specializing in work with non-profits. Work aside, his nose is in books, voraciously reading the world’s literature. Sometimes those books are notebooks in which he might write a modest observation or two. Co-publisher of Little Patuxent Review, he is also a long-standing board member of HoCoPoLitSo, the Howard County Poetry and Literature Society, an organization that brings the world’s great living writers to Maryland audiences. He has had the opportunity to meet some of his gods. If you asked him this particular week, he’d say of the writers from the past he would host for a dinner party Saturday evening: Roberto Bolaño, Elizabeth Bishop, Frank O’Hara, Lucille Clifton and, perhaps, Gu Chen.

Check out the new page to see the great work that Jim and Tim are doing and to join in the conversation!

Regional Coordinator Spotlight: Ce Rosenow Interviews Ellen Compton

What is it about haiku that appeals to you as a writer?

Brevity is one attraction, as I have most enjoyed short poetry in any genre. Primarily, however, a poetry that has nature at its heart is a perfect fit for me. I spent my early years in West Virginia and Eastern Ohio, in one small coal town or another—places that bore the scars of underground coal mines, yet existed in a great river valley among hills of incredible beauty. From that life came a deep love for the natural world, and an understanding of its fragility.

How do you see haiku informing your other writing and your life in general?

Writing haiku is a discipline that carries over into all my writing. For a poem with so few words, finding just the right one is more important than ever. Moreover, reading or writing haiku can often be a form of meditation.

Are there any haiku-related books that have had an important impact on your own haiku?

Paul O. Williams’ Nick of Time: Essays on Haiku Aesthetics comes at once to mind. Paul is always on the shelf right beside the Chicago Manual of Style. I often revisit one or more of the essays for his wisdom, his gentle humor, and the pleasure of his prose. I look to "A Dialogue on Baloney Haiku" to help keep me honest.

What part(s) of being a regional coordinator do you find challenging?

The size of the region is a challenge I share with several other coordinators. The Mid-Atlantic mostly functions in small, geographically-determined groups. Haiku Poets of Central Maryland, Towpath, and the North Carolina Haiku Society offer community to local poets and participate in the broader community. Poets in Northern Virginia are part of Towpath, but those farther south no longer have a local resource. The editor of South by Southeast still remains and publishes, but the Richmond Haiku Workshop has disbanded as members left the area. I would love to see a revival in that part of the region.

What upcoming plans do you have for haiku activities or projects in your region?

We are in early stages of planning for a haiku booth as part of the annual National Cherry Blossom Festival, and a Towpath member is organizing a public haiku reading for National Haiku Day in April. The North Carolina Group will be getting ready for its traditional Haiku Holiday in the spring.

Where would you like to see English-language haiku go in the future?

A while back The Washington Post ran a regular Sunday column, "Poet’s Corner," authored by a current or former poet laureate. Two of these, Robert Haas and Robert Pinsky, occasionally discussed haiku as serious poetry, but always poems by one of the Japanese greats (Bashō, Issa, Buson). Western greats (such as Lamb, Virgilio, Lyles) were never considered. I would like to see a broader recognition of English-language haiku as a vital Western poetic genre. I hope to see more awareness of our fine poets.

What part(s) of being a regional coordinator do you particularly enjoy?

I enjoy working with other poets to help them find a place in the haiku community, whether in small groups or in HSA, or (if distance so requires) by e-mail or snail-mail contact. I see haiku as a social art, not one to be practiced in an ivory tower.

Are there ways that you think the HSA can help with that development?

HSA is making strides in that direction, but we need more haiku venues and events with a Western flavor. The tea house is fine, but I would like to see haiku show up more often in the coffee house. It need not always be cherry blossoms—the Shenandoah Valley has had its apple blossom festivals.

Biographical Note

Ellen Compton makes her home in Washington, D.C. She became an HSA member 24 years ago, and has been regional coordinator since 2006 when the Mid-Atlantic states were part of the Southeast Region. She organized the HSA quarterly meeting of June 2000, and co-edited two HSA members’ anthologies (Fish in Love, 2006, and Dandelion Clocks, 2008).

Ellen is a founding member of Towpath (often subtitled Haiku Poets of the Chesapeake Watershed), and co-editor of two of Towpath’s anniversary anthologies: Pocket Change, 2000; and A Few Stars Away, 2010. Ellen is also a member of the Haiku Poets of Central Maryland, and served on the editorial staff of the Red Moon Anthology during the early years. Her work has received a number of awards, is widely published in journals here and abroad (The Heron’s Nest, Frogpond, Chrysanthemum, Gendai Haiku, haijinx, Modern Haiku, Brussels Sprout, Black Bough, Bottle Rockets, Woodnotes, Aki, for example), and is represented in major national and international haiku anthologies (including van den Heuvel’s The Haiku Anthology, Hardie’s Haiku: Poetry Ancient & Modern, and several editions of the Red Moon Anthology).

In Memoriam:
Susan Marie LaVallee
1950 – 2011

In the latest issue of Red Lights, Marilyn Hazelton has reported that Susan Marie LaVallee has passed away. She died in November of 2011 of lung cancer. An English teacher since moving to Kailua, Oahu, in 1987, Susan served for several years as the HSA’s regional coordinator for Hawaii. Her haiku, senryu, and tanka had increasingly been appearing in print.

In Haiku Headlines she once wrote that haiku “is a way of connecting to the universe. A little song. A postcard to God... There are as many ways [to write haiku] as there are stars, yet only one really matters—your own.” The HSA and its officers extend sympathy to Susan’s family and friends at her passing.

HSA First Quarterly Meeting
February 12, 2012
Seattle, Washington

The First Quarterly meeting was held on February 12 in Seattle Washington. First-time regional coordinator Katharine Hawkinson planned a half day of talks held at the Seattle Public Library Broadview Branch.

The morning consisted of a group meeting for a ginkgo walk in beautiful Carkeek Beach Park. Walking through old Piper’s Orchard and across Piper’s creek and woods, the group was able to see Puget Sound. Such a diverse place meant for lots of time to observe and be inspired! The optional ginkgo walk preceded the day’s official events.

There were three featured speakers at our event at the library. Richard Tice, an area resident and presenter at Haiku North America in August 2011, gave a talk entitled, “Is English-language Haiku Really Haiku?” With the answer, of course, a resounding yes! Michael Dylan Welch, HSA 1st vice president and founder of National Haiku Writing Month, spoke about NaHaiWirMo and its presence on the web and Facebook. If you have yet to check out NaHaiWirMo, you can visit its website at http://sites.google.com/site/nahaiwrimo/ or search for it on Facebook.

Teruko Kumei was our keynote speaker, secured by HSA president Ce Rosenow. Teruko Kumei is a professor at Shirayuri College in the English Department (American History and Culture). She is also an academic advisory committee member of the Japanese Overseas Migration Museum, Yokohama International Center, Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA).

Her field of research includes the history of Japanese emigration to the United States, and Japanese immigrant literature. She started to study Japanese immigrant literature in the U.S., especially senryu, haiku, and tanka in 1997 when she moved to Shirayuri College. “In Japanese, I have published many articles on history of Japanese immigrants in the US, including US-Japan relations over Japanese immigration problems, Japanese language school education, Japanese American incarceration, and Japanese immigrant literature. I am collecting Japanese immigrant senryu, haiku, and tanka poems by reading through various Japanese language papers, and digging up “buried” literary documents. I feel lucky as I met some Issei poets but, at the same time, I regret why I should have studied the topic earlier, because I knew those immigrant poems are very important historical materials immediately after I started my research in the 1980s. Right now I am interested in Isso Shimoyama, a free verse haiku poet in San Francisco, and am reading through his personal letters to his younger brother in Morioka, Iwate in Japan. His poems are overwhelming.

But this time I will talk about senryu poems and the interaction of senryu clubs in Japan and the West Coast.”

Thank you to all who participated in our meeting! See you at the next quarterly meeting in San Fransisco, California May 24-27!

— Katharine Grubb Hawkinson

HSA Increases Participation at American Literature Association Conference in May

The HSA has a greater presence at the ALA this year. We are organizing a panel on African American Haiku and a panel on American Haiku and Place. Susan Antolin chairs the African American haiku panel, and the panel features the following two presentations: “To sing the haiku the American way is a beautiful thing: The haiku of Etheridge Knight,” by Thomas L. Morgan and “Sequences of Events: Communal Narratives in Lenard D. Moore’s Haiku,” by Ce Rosenow. We plan to hold a membership meeting directly after this panel. Ian Marshall chairs the American haiku and place panel, and this panel features the following three presentations: “Beauty Behind Barbed Wire: Haiku from the Internment Camps,” by Margaret Chula; “The Seasons of Place: The Potential of Chibou Kigo in Western Haiku,” by Joshua Gage; and “Urban Haiku,” by Debbie Kolodji. We have asked that these panels be scheduled on Friday, May 25 and/or Saturday, May 26, and the ALA will let us know in March the exact days and times of our panels.

Our participation at the ALA conference coincides with our second national quarterly meeting. Susan Antolin has arranged for an afternoon of haiku readings and workshops on Sunday, May 27 at the O’Hanlon Center for the Arts in Mill Valley, a beautiful town across the Golden Gate Bridge from San Francisco.

For more information about the panels at the ALA, please see the ALA website www.calstatela.edu/academic/english/ala2/ or contact Ce Rosenow at rosenowce@gmail.com.

For information about the national meeting, please contact Susan Antolin at susantolin@gmail.com. We hope that members will come to San Francisco for a full haiku weekend at the conference and the national meeting.

Bangor Haiku Group

The December meeting of the Bangor Haiku Group included Bruce and Astrid’s report on their autumn trip to Japan to view the color change. They met with five haiku practitioners in Kamakura, Kyoto, Yaku-shima, Matsuyama, and Iga-Ueno. They discussed the three main haiku groups in Japan with a professor and shared haiku writing and critiques of our haiku with a travel guide at the Bashō Museum.

Bruce mentioned that the 2011 edition of The Best American Poetry included a haiku-like poem (or haiku sequence).

We discussed possibilities for National Haiku Poetry Day (Tuesday, April 17, 2012).

Astrid offered the following, a product of the Japan visit, which received favorable attention at the meeting and in adjunct comments:

Japanese temple
the stray cat begs under a headless god

We liked the link in the seasonal (no pun) haiku by Liga Jahnke:

Thanksgiving dinner
cooking up the leftovers
crows in the cornfield

At the January meeting we discussed further possibilities for National Haiku Poetry Day, a winter ginko at the University of Maine Art Gallery, and a continued conversation on modern Japanese poetry based on Bruce and Astrid’s New Year’s weekend discussion with a Japanese haiku poet. Pared down, the traditional school writes in archaic Japanese, both in words and style, and including 5-7-5, and kigo; the modern school and the haijin school both use 5-7-5 and kigo (20% of the modern school is experimental in approach), and both use modern feeling and language. The haijin school is basically traditional haiku in modern language and the modern school moves farther away from the traditional school.

Tom Trowbridge introduced a discussion of 5-7-5. His non-5-7-5 pared-down haiku seemed better than the 5-7-5 version:

my dog, cat, and I
piled in the recliner
still waters

We thought most haiku in English are short-long-short rather than 5-7-5. Two other adjuncts nonetheless offered 5-7-5 style haiku. The first by Liga Jahnke (who taught 5-7-5 in the Maine public school system for many years) offers a good New Year’s haiku with the flavor of Japanese culture in line 3:

January first
unwrapping the calendar—
not a mark on it

The second by Catherine Lee (who normally doesn’t consciously work in 5-7-5) offers one we all felt had a lot of feeling in it:

sound of hoot owl
all the things I didn’t say come back to haunt me

As was often said of haiku in English, if it sounds natural without any padding 5-7-5 is fine.

Our February ginko at the University of Maine Art Gallery and Panda Garden on Monday, February 13, will replace our usual monthly BHG meeting.

— Bruce Ross

Northeast Metro

At the September 17, 2011 meeting, Kathleen O’Toole, of the Nick Virgilio Haiku Association in Camden, NJ, followed a showing of the film, “Remembering Nick Virgilio” with memories. “Nick was a product of his life as a radio announcer, disc jockey, lover of jazz and popular music (think Cole Porter, Rogers and Hart), and even tried his hand at writing song lyrics. So when we ‘hear’ haiku such as:

lone red-winged blackbird riding a reed in high tide — billowing clouds

we see and hear the fleeting beauty and the loneliness of the scene,” she said.

Kathleen then led participants in a writing exercise inspired by one of Nick’s unfinished haiku. Elizabeth Bodien was awarded first prize for her haiku:

dead man’s clothes
— an old typewriter makes music

dead man’s clothes —

Scott Mason, Patricia Runkle, Leroy Kanterman and John Stevenson also received recognition for their Nick-inspired poems.

John Stevenson, the 2nd vice-president for HSA, represented Ce Rosenow, the HSA president, at this, the third quarter national meeting. He read selections from his Kanterman Award-winning collection, Live Again. (The Mildred Kanterman Award is named for HSA co-founder Leroy Kanterman’s late wife.) John presented a copy to Leroy following the reading. John commented that, while he had the general set of poems selected about a year before publication, it took most of that year to find an “organizing principle” for the work. Eventually, he divided the book into two sections. One, titled “live,” is a survey of the haiku-related poetry that has been an important influence in recent years. The other, briefer section, titled “again” represents an echo or receding wave in a variety of ways. Among the wonderful poems John read was:

Those participating were: Patricia Runkle, John Stevenson, Jay Friedenberg, Jim Paulson, Paul Handley, Leroy Kanterman, Therese Monaghan, Larry Boyle, Jeff Hoagland, Frank Joseph Routman, Scott Mason, Elizabeth Bodien, Mark Harris, Marilyn Hazleton, Cor van den Heuvel, Rita Gray, Dorothy McAuloughlin, Peg McAulay Byrd, Miriam Chaikin, Linda Rothstein, Ellen Peckham, Maura Tobias, Sheldon Silberstein, Geoff Van Kirk, Kazo Tsuda, and Kathleen O'Toole.

The December 3, 2011, Northeast Metro meeting began with a reflection on the legacy of L. A. Davidson (1917-2007), led by Rita Gray. L.A. Davidson, a longtime member of Northeast Metro, was remembered fondly by those who knew her and have been inspired by her haiku.

The major part of the meeting featured a recreation of aspects of Haiku North America (HNA) by three of our members who participated in that conference in Seattle in August, 2011. Jay Friedenberg and Marilyn Hazleton described sessions they had attended, including a photography/haiku workshop given by Los Angeles poet/photographer and artist Eve Luckring. Meeting attendees were invited to be inspired by that workshop by writing haiku linked to photos that Jay and Marilyn provided.

Following an intermission, Cor van den Heuvel recreated his session at HNA by reading haibun from his new book, A Boy’s Seasons: Haibun Memoirs, from the section “Winter: Radio, Little-Big Books and The Movies.” As past president of the Haiku Society of America, with three Merit Book Awards, the World Haiku Achievement Award in London and Oxford in 2000, and the Masaoka Shiki International Haiku Prize in 2002, Cor continues to inspire us with his writing.

On this occasion he inspired us to write haibun based on the haiku we had written from Jay’s and Marilyn’s photographs. This writing was followed by readings of our haibun, illustrated by the photographs that had inspired us.

We also heard from Geoff Van Kirk, of the UN International School, who announced a haiku contest for school-aged children. We were also delighted to meet Lucas Stensland who returned recently to NYC from St. Cloud, Minnesota. Welcome to you both!

Rita Gray led the last portion of the meeting, on possible directions for Northeast HSA Metro to take in 2012. It was a spirited discussion with a number of suggestions. Scott Mason requested that the suggestions be sent by e-mail and voted on by the membership at our March 31 meeting.

Those participating were: Rita Gray, Ellen Peckham, Cor van den Heuvel, Scott Mason, Carol Pearce Worthington, Peg McAulay Byrd, Lucas Stensland, Jay Friedenberg, Arlene & Jaxon Teck, Marilyn Hazleton, Mary Ellen Rooney, Miriam Chaikin, Dorothy McLaughlin, Geoff Van Kirk, Jeff Hoagland, Elizabeth Bodien and Patricia McKernon Runkle.

Our spring meeting will be held March 31 from 3:00-5:30 p.m. at Tenri Cultural Institute, 43A West 13th Street (North side of 13th Street between 5th and 6th Avenues), NYC. The program will include a haiku presentation by Sho Otaka, a very special guest who is a talented haiku poet and lecturer in Japan. She will be introduced and aided by Hiroaki Sato with commentary and translations. Hiroaki Sato has himself been called by Gary Snyder “ . . . perhaps the finest translator of contemporary Japanese poetry into American English.” It will be an unusual and interesting program.

Rochester Area Haiku Group

Our monthly meetings now open by sharing haiku “appropriate to the season” that members have enjoyed reading. It’s a sort of ritual opening during which we share seasonal haiku by reading translations of traditional or modern Japanese haiku and/or reading English-language haiku. This activity serves as a bridge from the external world to the more intimate haiku world...
Haiku Poets of the Garden State

Haiiku Poets of the Garden State is a group of eight poets that formed in the Spring of 2010. We meet at the Library of the Chathams in Chatham, NJ at 7 p.m. on the third Monday of the month, excluding July and August. We each bring copies of our haiku, senryu, tanka and haibun to share and critique. Current members include: Diane J. Lynch, Patricia McKernon Runkle, Peg McAulay Byrd, Stacy Pendergrast, Joseph Cuthbert, Andrea Grillo, Arlene Teck, and Jaxon Teck. We might also meet on the first Sunday of the month in the afternoon. If you are interested in joining us, please contact Diane Lynch at dlynch92@comcast.net

Haiku Poets’ Society of Western Massachusetts

Alice Mae Ward, the founder of HPSWM, died on November 4, 2012. Her strong interest in learning haiku established the group and set its tone nearly twenty years ago. Alice served as coordinator of the group until 1998. Even when she could no longer actively participate she stayed in touch by phone and mail.

A memorial book, Sylently the Yellow, was created with much of Alice’s poetry and memorial haiku by each of the members of the group. Wanda Cook edited the book and Patricia Harvey made the graphics. The original was given to her sister, Jean, and a copy has been put in the HPSWM archives.

Alice was published in many of the popular haiku journals and among her final poems was this one:

hummingbird’s death
too small to notice

We will miss her gentle words and spirit.

Denise Fontaine-Pincince gave a presentation at the November meeting of her striking haiga, with slides of the entire series and some of the full pieces. She had brought many of the haiku to discuss at earlier group meetings and it was fascinating to see them now as part of completed three dimensional art work.

Our annual December holiday meeting and party took place at Gloria Ayvazian’s house. Along with enjoying good food, we did a group poetry writing game and gave out awards. Patricia Harvey received an award for outstanding service. She and Gloria received the awards for perfect attendance.

We would like to welcome our new member, Alyce Stiles. Alyce has already shared a number of her poems and we look forward to hearing more of her work.

The HPSWM’s library has received the generous donation of new haiku books from Stanford M. Forrester after he gave a presentation last September. A large number of books from former member Rob Andrews were also added to the library. Thank you to both of them for their contributions.

The most recent issue of Nor’Easter published poems from members Alice Mae Ward, Denise Fontaine-Pincince, Elizabeth Hazen, Patricia Harvey and Wanda Cook.

Wanda Cook along with Larry Kimmel and Jeff Winke are the featured authors in the newest release of the 3-n-1 anthology series by Bottle Rockets Press. The anthology, One Thing Leads to Another, is a collection of sensual haiku which includes about 15 poems by each individual poet. The book is available from Bottle Rockets Press.

of the next two hours.

In October, we enjoyed a presentation by Michael Ketchek titled “From Japan — A Hundred Haiku You Should Know.” In November, Carolyn Dancy facilitated a workshop on concrete images. In December, the group visited the public gardens of the First Unitarian Church of Rochester. Individuals strolled through the 7-acre gardens and afterwards met indoors to write haiku. We also agreed to continue writing garden haiku so RAHG could create a “haiku collage” for an upcoming art exhibit.

For January’s program, Carolyn Dancy told us about various resources she finds useful for writing nature-based haiku, how she finds inspiration when not outdoors, and why she maintains a list of concrete images from her outdoor experiences—in effect, a list of images that one day might serve as the starting point for a haiku. Carolyn confessed that one of her favorite images “a calico cat asleep in the sun” was on her list a very long time. Then one day, in a sudden flash, she had it:

a calico cat asleep in the sun

In February, Deanna Tiefenthal reviewed a unique anthology of haiku written by Japanese Americans during their internment in War Relocation Camps after Imperial Japan’s attack on Pearl Harbor. Compiled by Violet Kazue de Cristoforo, this anthology is titled May Sky, There is Always Tomorrow. Deanna reported that writing haiku helped individuals cope with the psychological stresses of internment. It not only kept an essential part of their culture alive, but enabled them to focus on the present moment, not dwell on the past nor fear the future. Consequently, the haiku poets never lost their identity nor their joy of living.

Haiku Poets of Central Maryland

I

In place of HPCM’s regular December meeting, the Haiku Poets of Central Maryland were pleased and honored to host the Haiku Society of America’s fourth quarterly meeting for 2011. Nearly a year in the planning, the meeting took place Friday, December 2 through Sunday, December 4 at the Bon Secours Spiritual Center (BSSC) in Marriottsville, MD. We welcomed a total of 21 participants who came from near and far for three days of tranquility, nature, and contemplative and creative pursuits. The weather cooperated by giving us three days of clear sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-fifties during the day.

Attending part or all of the meeting were: James Aaron, Susan Antolin, Roberta Beary, Elizabeth Black, Mark Brager, Anne Burgevin, Ellen Compton, Robert Ertman, Elizabeth Fanto, Robert Fanto, Dianne Garcia, Ginny Leidig, Barry Mohr, Brenda Mohr, Michael Morrell, Tony Nasuta, Tim Singleton, Hazel Witherspoon, Susan Wyman, Thomas Wyman, and Cathy Drinkwater Better (Walker).

The meeting drew participants from as far away as California; Seattle, WA; and Indianapolis, IN; and as nearby as the state capital, Annapolis, MD; as well as Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the Washington, D.C. area.

The Haiku Retreat was planned and executed by a core group of local HPCM members (and one HPCM’er recently relocated to Piscataway, NJ—we miss her a lot!) Elizabeth Fanto (Timonium, MD), Tony Nasuta (Timonium, MD), Tim Singleton (Columbia, MD), Mark Brager (Columbia, MD), Ginny Leidig (Joppa, MD), Hazel Witherspoon (Piscataway, NJ), and Cathy (Drinkwater Better) Walker (Eldersburg, MD).

On Friday evening, after a delicious dinner in the BSSC dining room, we came together in our designated meeting area: the extremely comfortable and spacious Sr. Angelique Gaey Room, which boasts a view of—and direct access to—BSSC’s Japanese garden. Cathy and other HPCM members informed mally greeted participants who had been arriving throughout the afternoon and evening and went over the features and options available at BSSC, including the Labyrinth, the Peace Garden, and 300-plus acres of rolling hills and woodlands. We also caught up with distant friends, met new ones, and had a delightful time settling in and getting acquainted.

Between dinner and the welcome get-together, some attendees took advantage of the opportunity to attend a delightful musical concert in progress in BSSC’s beautiful chapel. “That music feeds me!” exclaimed one HSA member, who was probably expressing a bit of what all those listening felt.

Between dinner and the welcome get-together, some attendees took advantage of the opportunity to attend a delightful musical concert in progress in BSSC’s beautiful chapel. “That music feeds me!” exclaimed one HSA member, who was probably expressing a bit of what all those listening felt.

A book table was set up to one side of the meeting area and maintained throughout the three-day event, displaying and selling books and other materials by HSA and HPCM members.

We were honored to have Susan Antolin, editor of HSA’s newsletter Ripples, in the house representing the HSA executive committee. After breakfast on Saturday morning Susan updated us on HSA goings-on by sharing a letter from the HSA president, Ce Rosenow, after which we all discussed briefly a few topics raised in Ce’s letter.

For those who wanted to participate, Ginny Leidig led a Saturday ginko walk at BSSC. It began with the Japanese garden and moved on to the Peace Garden, where visitors over the years have created small stone cairns; and then to the Labyrinth, which was swept clean of autumn leaves. Some meeting-goers chose to walk the Labyrinth, a favorite pursuit among those who visit BSSC.

Plenty of “quiet time” was built into the schedule each day, during which attendees could enjoy creative endeavors, meander the surrounding hills and woodlands, gather in small groups, or simply recharge their batteries in the peaceful, tranquil atmosphere for which BSSC is so well known.

After Ginny’s on-site ginko, members of HPCM presented a brief poetry reading in honor of our guests. This was followed by a presentation and workshop by Roberta Beary entitled, “Haibun: The Good, the Bad, and the Boring.” After sharing solid advice for creating effective haibun, Roberta used a couple of sample haibun from an HPCM member for a workshop in which she detailed ways to improve the works and provided an enlightening before-and-after comparison.

After a lunch buffet in the BSSC dining room—where all meals were held during the HSA meeting—Tim Singleton gave a talk: “Becoming Beautiful—a Responsibility of Haiku in Bio-regionalism and Environmental Literacy.” This eye-opening presentation, which incorporated a PowerPoint slide... show throughout, explained Maryland’s new “No Child Left Inside” initiative—other states are now beginning to follow suit—that reintroduces children to the natural resources in and around their home locales. The program encourages students to discover, enjoy, respect, and protect these resources. Tim explained how haiku poets, working directly with students through the schools and other programs, can help encourage and deepen in children a love of and involvement with nature that is often lacking today due to our more sedentary lifestyles and numerous indoor pursuits (e.g., video games, online social networks, and TV). Major food for thought.

Shortly after his talk, Tim then led interested attendees on a ginko hike at nearby McKeldin Falls in PatapSCO Valley State Park. At McKeldin Falls, the PatapSCO River plunges 12 feet within 60 feet, creating a small falls and white water rushing and tumbling over rocks that eventually resolves into a pond in the one-time quarry below; and then a gentler watercourse through the park as the PatapSCO continues its journey toward the Chesapeake Bay. With the sun low in the mid-afternoon sky, we first viewed the falls from above, then clambered down the steep, rocky hill to get nearer the white water, walked beside the lake, and hiked a short way down the tributary, over rocky terrain, where we saw rock formations, cliff walls, woodlands, and an accommodating blue heron, who kindly agreed to pose for a long while so we could snap photos.

After dinner that evening Ellen Compton opened and moderated a discussion on “Memory, Imagination and the Authentic Haiku Moment,” wherein we enjoyed an animated discourse on the legitimacy of memory and other cognitive processes—such as combining memories out of time for effect—in the creation of an “authentic” haiku.

Sunday morning, after breakfast, HPCM hosts Elizabeth and Cathy led a well-attended and dynamic haiku workshop; followed by an open mic poetry reading. Many of those presenting work for either the workshop or the reading had written their haiku during their time at BSSC. Finally, after lunch, where one-time strangers who had become friends over the previous few days dined together one last time, guests said their goodbyes and began departing for points north, south, east and west as they headed home (except one couple, who liked BSSC so much, they decided to stay another night!). Cathy, the last one out the door, turned off the lights on her way out.

Finally, we’d like to say that HPCM has never had so much fun—or worked so hard!—in all our time together. We want to thank everyone who attended the HSA’s fourth quarterly meeting for 2011, and everyone from HPCM and BSSC who made our haiku retreat possible, from the bottom of our collective heart; and also to thank the Haiku Society of America for giving us this incredible opportunity to be of service, and to meet and commune with HSA members from across the country.

We wish everyone who reads this a very happy, healthy, and blessed new year!

—Cathy Drinkwater Better (Walker)

Towpath

Towpath has met twice since our last report. Lee Giesecke hosted the October meeting, and with Roberta Beary, Elizabeth Black, Ellen Compton, Kristen Deming, Fonda Bell Miller, Kathleen O’Toole, Penny Showell, and Mary Wuest, welcomed newcomer Rick Black. In December we met in Ellen Compton’s Washington apartment with Roberta, Rick, Kristen, Lee, Penny, and Mary attending. At that meeting we welcomed Jim (the Peach) Aaron as a new Towpath member.

Rick has recently moved his family, himself, and Turtle Light Press to Arlington in Northern Virginia. At the October meeting he gave each of us a handout with information about the chapbook contest he sponsors as publisher of Turtle Light Press. He displayed copies of beautiful chapbooks he has designed for winners from previous years. Rick encourages everyone to visit the Turtle Light website (www.turtlelightpress.com), which has contest information and tells how to subscribe to the Turtle Light Press newsletter.

We have explored possibilities for HSA participation in the 2012 National Cherry Blossom Festival. This year marks the 100th anniversary of Japan’s gift of the famous trees that line Washington’s Tidal Basin. We discussed the problems that are likely to be encountered given the tight security surrounding events on the National Mall and throughout the center of the Capital city, as well as the large crowds to be expected during blossom season and the many competing events. Rick volunteered to head the project. Assisted by Kristen, he now has a commitment for a haiku booth as part of the April 14 street festival managed by the Japan-America Society of Washington. Rick and Ellen are currently brainstorming for what will happen in the booth, and are calling for volunteers to staff it as well as to assist in set-up and break-down.

Lee announced plans for an event to be held on April 18, 2012, which is Haiku Day in National Poetry Month. He is investigating likely sites, and has plans for haiku readings and possibly a workshop.

The October meeting also saw a program in which member poets exchanged ideas about the nitty-gritty of haiku writing—candy wrappers vs. notebook vs. 21st-century technology—as well as how we keep track of haiku once they are written. Most begin the writing process directly from hand to some form of paper, then transfer their work to computer. Ellen is a particular devotee of starting with candy wrappers and paper napkins, but she also uses assorted notebooks (which are seldom where she needs them). Roberta has a problem in finding writing materials when riding a crowded Metro to and from work.

We noted the importance of keeping track of submissions and published work. No one wants to resubmit a poem to an editor who has already rejected it or to be guilty of simultaneous submissions! Or, as bad or worse, to submit a published work when unpublished is the requirement. Mary and Ellen have similar plans for maintaining and backing up computer files of completed haiku, labeling each with where it is has been submitted and keeping cumulative submission, acceptance, and publication records. Roberta maintains a separate e-mail account as a storage facility for her submission and publication records.

In December, Ellen, Roberta, and Elizabeth attended the HSA quarterly meeting hosted by the Haiku Poets of Central Maryland, where they were introduced to Jim and brought him home to Towpath when the meeting was over. Roberta led a haibun workshop, Ellen gave a presentation on imagination and memory in haiku, and we all thoroughly enjoyed HPCM’s fine program as well as our stay at the Bon Secours Retreat Center. An unexpected gift was the Friday evening service in the Bon Secours chapel. The prayers, by singers of Taizé Baltimore, were in the tradition of the Ecumenical Community of Taizé in France. A beautiful start to a great haiku weekend!

South East Region

Terri French of Huntsville, Alabama was recently instated as the South East regional coordinator of the HSA. In the last month she has recruited four new members to the region—two from Alabama, one from Florida, and one from Georgia. She recently sent out a letter of introduction to all of the South East HSA members, outlining short and long term goals for the region.

In January, Terri met with Richard Modlin, president of the Alabama Writers Conclave, about teaching an “Intro to Haiku” session at their annual workshop and meeting in July. The conclave is one of the oldest continuing writers’ organizations in the United States. Last year, Terri’s haibun, “Taksi,” took second place in the conclave’s international literary competition.

All regional members are urged to let Terri know of any haiku-related projects they are working on. Also, if you are interested in helping with events and meetings, contact her at terri.l.french@gmail.com.

A regional meeting is tentatively planned for Sept. 28–30 at Lake Guntersville State Park in Guntersville, AL. Anyone interested in attending (whether in our region or not) as well as anyone interested in speaking or conducting a workshop should contact Terri at terri.l.french@gmail.com.

New Orleans Haiku Society

We are thrilled to report that international renku master Shokan Tadashi Kondo will visit New Orleans, Louisiana, in March. From 1969 to 1972, he lived in Rakushisha, where he studied haiku with Shiranshi Kudo, the eleventh Master of Rakushisha. In 1986, he started writing renku with Ryukan Miyoshi, Tokihiko Kusama and Meiga Higashi, and renga with Kiyoshi Hamachiyo.

When he lived in Rakushisha he came up with a basic concept of universal haiku grammar. From 1998-2000 he was a visiting scholar at Harvard University, teaching Japanese Literature; in February 2000, he staged the first renku performance at Harvard. I was lucky enough to meet him a few years later in Hot Springs, Arkansas, at the HSA-

South Regional conference, where he led participants in a kasen renku that stretched into the early morning hours. He has numerous publications, including books, essays, renga and renku. Currently, Tadashi-san is a professor of English at Seikei University in Tokyo.

Here is the schedule of activities:
Monday, March 19 at 6 p.m., he will attend the regular monthly meeting of the New Orleans Haiku Society as our special guest reader. He will talk about renku informally and participate in our sharing and critique of haiku. The meeting will be held at 5120 St. Charles Avenue. This meeting is open to the public.

On Wednesday, March 21 from 7 to 9 p.m., he will give a talk at Xavier University of Louisiana on “A Brief History of Haiku and Renku.” This will take place at 1 Drexel Drive, NCF Academic Science Building, Room 173. This lecture, sponsored by the Xavier English Department, is open to all.

On Sunday, March 25 from 1 to 5 p.m., the main event, “Renku Seminar: Form and Practice,” will take place at the Latter Library, 5120 St. Charles Avenue. He will lead a workshop to write a short form of renku. All are invited. We would like to extend an invitation to all HSA members to join us for one, two, or all of these events. If you need help arranging a hotel (or a couch to sleep on), contact David Lanoue at david1gerard@hotmail.com.

Our next big event of the spring will take place on Tuesday, April 17. As part of National Haiku Poetry Day, sponsored by the Haiku Foundation, we will organize, publicize and participate in a public reading of haiku from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Latter Library.

Chicago Metro Meeting

A small and highly productive group of haikuists met at the Winnetka Public Library in Winnetka, IL for a three-hour critique and discussion on Saturday, February 11. Among others, there was one guest poet, Mary Jane Gabrielsen, and Indiana member Mac Green made the long drive from Indianapolis.

Each participant shared poems that were categorized by Charlotte DiGregorio, Midwest regional coordinator, as “award-winning.” Charlotte said she was pleased that participants Tom Chockley, Mac Greene, Joanne Crofton, and Tomoko Hata, who have been writing haiku for a relatively short time, are excelling in their work and getting it published in major haiku journals. Further, Carolyn Jevillian and Mary Jane Gabrielsen, who haven’t been writing haiku as long, contributed valuable critiques of others’ work and shared their very thoughtful haiku.

Charlotte reiterated that haiku poets excel when they are regularly reading haiku journals to become familiar with the style and flow of it. The poetry presented at the meeting was of such high quality that participants wanted to save their work for publication in contests and journals, rather than have poems previewed in the newsletter.

To begin the meeting, Charlotte reviewed the basic style and form of haiku/senryu. She shared six beautiful samples of haiku from In Pine Shade, the HSA 2011 members’ anthology.

Among others, she selected:

summer stars
my children ask me to name a favorite
—Tom Painting

Charlotte said that for her, Painting’s haiku illustrates the idea behind Ralph Waldo Emerson’s quote: “To speak truly, few adult persons can see nature. Most persons do not see the sun. At least they have a very superficial seeing. The sun illuminates only the eye of the man, but shines into the eye and the heart of the child.”

As for meeting announcements, Tom Chockley said that he has had some responses from HSA members in the Midwest region and beyond about joining his haiku networking e-mail group. He still seeks more members to share and discuss haiku. Contact Tom at thomassem2@hotmail.com if you are interested.

Charlotte announced that Haikufest will be held in the Chicago Metro area, Saturday, April 28 from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Skokie Public Library in Skokie, IL. Skokie was selected because there is a significant Japanese population in the area.

In a subsequent Ripples newsletter, details about Haikufest’s success will be included. She said any dues-paying member of the HSA with three or more haiku published in a haiku journal will be eligible to read. She said readers will have the opportunity to briefly introduce themselves and their work, telling what they enjoy about writing haiku and how they began writing it.

Also scheduled for Haikufest are a brief talk about haiku by Charlotte and a brief presentation on haiga with black ink paintings by Lidia Rozmus. There will also be an audience haiku contest. Charlotte also urged members to attend the Cradle Festival in Mineral Point, WI, Friday through Sunday, July 20-22. She said the haiku workshops and presentations will make it a very rewarding experience for beginning and experienced haikuists alike. Charlotte looks forward to sharing specifics in the coming months by the program’s organizers, HSA members Gayle Bull, Francine Banwart and Jerry Cushman. The Cradle Festival will be heavily publicized and haikuists from many states will attend.

Midwest Member News

We welcome 11 new members to the Midwest Region: from Illinois, Alicia Hilton, William Shehan and Amelia Cotter; from Indiana, Jerry Dreesen; from Minnesota, John Henningsaard, John Sigfrid, John Hocter, and Matthew...
Charlotte Digregorio’s 2012 award-winning haiku sequence, “Grandfather’s Death,” will appear on bus lines running along Chicago’s north shore the month of April.

Mineral Point—Southern Wisconsin Haiku Group

The Dubuque, IA/Mineral Point, WI, HSA members have been collaborating on a number of haiku events including autumn haiku workshops and a winter solstice reading at River Lights Bookstore in Dubuque and monthly haiku workshops and presentations at The Foundry Books in Mineral Point, Wisconsin. Melissa Allen led us in a renku workshop and Bill Pauly presented a workshop on reading and writing senryu. Visitors have included Jerome Cushman, Charlie Trumbull, Lidia Rozmus, and Mike Montreuil, as well as haiku enthusiasts from Wisconsin and Iowa.

A “Love Haiku & Poetry” reading will be held at The Foundry Books on February 12 to celebrate Valentine’s Day.

Save the date for the third Cradle of American Haiku Meeting in Mineral Point, to be held July 20-22. Planning is underway and details will be available in February through Gayle Bull at the Foundry Books: info@foundrybooks.com.

This year’s program will commemorate American Haiku, the first American haiku journal, published by James and Gayle Bull in the 1960s. The event will be a celebration of the past, the present, and the future of haiku and the program will include presentations, workshops, a Midwest potluck, renku writing, and a ginko.

Riverbend Haiku

Riverbend Haiku held a beginning haiku class in South Bend at Forever Learning Institute in the fall semester. We had one new student, Lynn Edison. After the class Lynn joined the regular Riverbend members for their workshop. At the end of the semester, the class went to Nick’s Patio in South Bend.

We took the month of December off because of the holidays and met again on January 9, 2012 at Centre Library for a pizza party followed by our regular meeting. Members attending were Elinor and Ken Huggett, Jim and Willa Pickens, Ray Flory, Jeanne Cook, Bob Hosier, Ted Salis, Janice Hunter, Carolyn Tihi, Marilyn Ashbaugh, and Lynn Edison.

Elinor gave a lesson in honkadori (an allusion within a poem to an older poem) and had handouts for those attending. For those who couldn’t make the meeting, Elinor e-mailed the honkadori lesson to them. We then shared and critiqued some of our poems. Bob Hosier brought an interesting and fun game called Haikubes that he found online and some of us tried composing some haiku from the dice that we rolled.

Weather permitting, (we live in the Lake Michigan snow belt area) we will meet again at the library on February 9 for a carry-in dinner and our regular meeting. Hopefully we will have a few guests attending who expressed interest in our group.

In March, we will resume meeting at Forever Learning Institute in South Bend.

Plains and Mountain Region

As your new regional coordinator, I say “hello” to all members out here in the hinterlands. I would like to meet each one of you personally. Perhaps someday. But for now, due to our large geographical area, e-mail may be the most efficient way to communicate. I do hope to hear from you. Tell us about your writing, publications, and haiku events in your neighborhoods. Please also submit news you would like to share in Ripples.

Colorado Springs

Pat Kennelly graciously provided space at her restaurant, the Mediterranean Cafe in Colorado Springs. We met there regularly during the summer and fall. A few gatherings took place in local gardens and parks where we reflected, wrote and shared our haiku.

In October, Autumn Hall presented an in-depth program on tanka and its various forms: sanjuchi, gogyohka, gogyoshi, and kyoka. Our long-time haiku leader, mentor, and former Plains and Mountain regional coordinator, Liz Nichols, donated her personal collection of haiku journals, anthologies, and books to our group. We have gratefully established a members’ lending library.

Thank you, Liz. For those of you who may remember her, she is doing well.

In November, each person brought an unfinished haiku. Our wordsmiths had great fun helping search for just the right word or shape of the poems until they sparkled. Members Pat Kennelly, Autumn Hall, Sandra McNew, and Pat Nolan all have long poems appearing in Messages From the Hidden Lake, Vol. III, published by the Alamosa public library.

The Pikes Peak Penrose main library provided a room for our January meeting where we analyzed a collection of 10-to-15-year-old haiku, looking especially for kigo and keriji, and rearranging some of the poems.

In December, Pat Nolan taught a haiku workshop for children at the Book Nook in Buena Vista, CO during the annual BV Art Walk. In January, she taught a two-week class in sumi-e at PILLAR Institute of Lifelong Learning in Colorado Springs.

All haiku poets within our region or not are invited and always welcome to attend any of our gatherings. Contact Pat Nolan at patrician1023@gmail.com for current information. Also, if there are any regional members reading this who did not receive my personal newsletter to all of you, please send me your current contact information.

Bellingham Haiku Group

Bellingham Haiku Group welcomed two new members in 2011. Our group continues to meet monthly at the Firehouse Cafe in Fairhaven for haiku critiques, news updates, and writing exercises. We saw a great deal of growth in 2011 in the form of haiku publications. Several members had their work accepted into journals, such as Frogpond, Modern Haiku, Mu Haiku, Bottle Rockets, Notes from the Gean, and more. It was an exciting year. For 2012, we plan more of the same, as well as to put together a members’ anthology.

Oregonian Maggie Chula will be the guest lecturer at Portland State University on February 9, teaching haiku and rengay to Japanese Literature students. She received third prize from the Oregon State Poetry Association for her haibun “Shelter.”

Multi-talented artist and poet Shirley Kishiymura received the 2012 Artsmith Residency, and is one of 5 recipients who will spend a week in March on Orcas Island. Shirley applied as an artist and poet, and submitted Chinese calligraphy/painting images of the artwork that she displayed at the 2011 HSA Haiku Weekend conference in Bend, plus 5 pages of poetry which included tanka and haibun.

Oregon’s Cara Holman has been on a roll lately, winning the third prize in the International “Kusamakura” Haiku Competition, first prize in the 2011 Po- rad Award, honorable mention in the 13th HIA Haiku Contest, first place in the Writer’s Digest Poetic Form Challenge, third place in the 2011 Thom Williams Memorial contest, and honorable mention in the 15th Mainichi Haiku Contest.

an’ya was surprised and honored to be selected as one of the top 10 haiku poets in the world for 2011 at Simply Haiku. Three of her haiku have been scheduled for the Per Diem feature at the Haiku Foundation. Her haiku-suiseki and Whazammo’s (peterB’s) viewing stones were the featured display at the Eugene Bonsai Society. They will also be showing at the Eugene Asian Celebration as well as the Emerald Arts Center Gallery in Oregon since moving to the greater Eugene area. Central Valley Haiku Club

As autumn crept into the California central valley and surrounding hills, on Saturday, October 8, 2011, the Central Valley Haiku Club held their annual English Language Haiku reading at the Gekkeikan Sake Factory, 1136 Sibley Street, Folsom, CA. This event, along with many other art activities, is held in conjunction with Folsom’s yearly celebration of the arts.

Before an audience of around two dozen, and with the koi pond as backdrop, club members Yvonne Cabalona, Bill Owen, Mark Hollingsworth, Lana Campbell, and Leslie Rose, shared information about the various haiku forms and then read some of their poetry, while member Ricardo de Bernardi took pictures. To everyone’s delight, at the end of the reading, some of the audience members shared their poetry as well.

When the reading was finished and the audience had departed, the club held their next to the last meeting of the year.

The first item of discussion was the 2011 Jerry Kilbride Memorial English Language Haibun contest which closed on October 1. Yvonne reported that the submissions have gone to the judges and we will be receiving notification of our winners before our next meeting in December. So, with this contest almost put to bed, it was decided that we should, even before this year ends, begin notifying poets of our next haibun contest, our ninth annual event, which will have a deadline of December 1, 2012. We are hoping, with a full year to submit to this year’s contest. With the deadline later this year, we’re hoping that all of these poems and more will be working on pieces to submit to this year’s contest. With the deadline later this year, we’re hoping that everyone will have more than enough time to gather and weave their prose and poetry.

Leslie Rose reported on the stellar 2011 Seabeck Haiku Getaway that she attended in October held by Haiku Northwest and shared the anthology constructed by the more than 30 attendees at that event.

Yvonne reported on last year’s haibun contest. We would like to thank our judges, Deborah P Kolodji and Ellen Compton. First place goes to Cara Holman of Portland, Oregon for her haibun “Filtered Sunlight.” And second place goes to David Grayson of Alameda, California, a member of HPNC, for his haibun, “Pathfinder.” You may view these writings at our website. We would like to congratulate and thank all our entrants for their wonderful submissions. We’re hoping that all of these poets and more will be working on pieces to submit to this year’s contest. With the deadline later this year, we’re hoping that everyone will have more than enough time to gather and weave their prose and poetry.

Leslie shared her tanka that appeared in the recent Fall/Winter edition of Moonbathing; Bill announced that one of his haiku will be appearing in the forthcoming Frogpond; and Yvonne had a couple of haiku and a haibun included in the most recent copy of Bottle Rockets. The last order of business was to set the date for our next meeting. It will be held at the Gekkeikan Sake Factory, 1136 Sibley Street, Folsom, CA, on Saturday, March 10, at 11:30.

Thomas Martin, a volunteer at the Avamere Rest Home and Rehabilitation Center in Beaverton, Oregon, did a short lecture and haiku reading, including some by fellow Oregonians an’ya and Ce. It went very well and everyone was interested in the haiku form. All had a good time with a short discussion of the merits of haiku afterward.

A reading by Oregon’s well-known Laura Winter continuing the fifth season of the Milwaukee Poetry Series was on February 8, 2012 at the Pond House in Milwaukee, Oregon, adjacent to the Leding Library. Laura Winter’s most recent book of poetry, Coming Here to be Alone, is a bilingual English–German edition which focuses on the High Desert and Great Basin. The western landscape with all its hoodoos, headlands, basin and range, whitewater and rain are the foundation from which she works. Her love for improvised music also informs how she approaches language. Laura has performed with jazz musicians and improvisers in the U.S. and Europe.

Her work has been widely published, translated and set to music for an art song series. She currently publishes the occasional Take Out, a bag-a-zine of art, writing and music that features powerful voices from around the globe. She recently completed a residency with Playa at Summer Lake, Oregon.

January 2012 Meeting

Having canceled the meeting scheduled for December, the Central Valley Haiku Club, held their first meeting since the haiku reading in October on January 14, 2012. Members Bill Owen, Mark Hollingsworth, Yvonne Cabalona, Ricardo de Bernardi, and Leslie Rose gathered at one of the club’s favorite meeting spots, the Eastern Empire Restaurant.

Over savory plates of food, the main topic of discussion turned on technology and making chapbooks available for download to the public, as well as finding and enjoying such things as haiga online.

Leslie Rose reported on the stellar 2011 Seabeck Haiku Getaway that she attended in October held by Haiku Northwest and shared the anthology constructed by the more than 30 attendees at that event.

Haiku Poets of Northern California

October 16 Meeting

The fall meeting of the Haiku Poets of Northern California took place on October 16, 2011 at Fort Mason in San Francisco. Present at the meeting were: Rober Abe, Susan Antolin, Fay Aoyagi, Betty Arnold, Jerry Ball, Robin Beshers, Claudia Chapline, Bruce Feingold, Gary Gach, Patrick Gallagher, Garry Gay, Johnnie Johnson Hafernik, Carolyn Hall, Peggy Heinrich, Mariko Kitakubo, Renée Owen, Bill Quigley, Joseph Robello, Carol Steele, John Thompson, and Marian Yap. The meeting began with a round of introductions and poems.

Susan Antolin introduced our featured reader, Peggy Heinrich. Peggy has been writing haiku for more than 35 years. Her work has appeared in nearly every major haiku journal, many anthologies, and has won numerous top awards. A collection of her haiku, Peeling an Orange, was published in 2009 (and copies are available from Peggy by contacting her at heinrich01@gmail.com). We are very fortunate that she moved from the east coast to Santa Cruz to be nearer to her two daughters.

During the break for refreshments and socializing, Susan Antolin invited everyone to write autumn kigo on the white board. By the end of the break, there was a considerable list of kigo. Susan encouraged people to write down any kigo they might want to take with them for later use.

After the break Susan made several announcements. She mentioned that in September the Asian Art Museum hosted a haiga workshop led by Patricia Machmiller, which Fay Aoyagi said was sold out and very well-received by everyone who attended.

Haiku Pacific Rim, an international gathering of poets that takes place every two years, will be in the Bay Area in September of 2012 and will be jointly hosted by the Yuki Teikei Haiku Society and HPNC. See page 29 for more details.

Susan also announced that the haiku contest she has been involved with in Richmond is now in its second year. Sponsored by the Richmond Arts and Culture Commission, the contest is open to all school children and adult-education students in Richmond. Susan gave two haiku workshops for teachers in Richmond this year and served as a judge for the contest.

After the announcements, Mariko Kitakubo, a well-known Japanese tanka poet and author of the books On This Same Star (2006) and Cicada Forest (2008), both translated by Amelia Fielden, performed a reading of a selection of her tanka from each of her books as well as several new poems. Dressed in a gorgeous kimono and accompanied by a sound recording as well as instruments she played in between poems, Mariko’s performance was dramatic, with her intonation conveying the emotional undertones of her work even to those of us not fluent in Japanese. The English translations were read by Susan Antolin. Mariko recently moved to Santa Rosa, where she plans to reside for a portion of each year (the other portion she spends in Tokyo). We are so fortunate to have her nearby and willing to contribute her talents at HPNC events. Mariko very generously offered the proceeds from the sales of her books at the meeting back to HPNC.

For the remainder of the meeting, Jerry Ball led the group in an auditory kukai. In introducing the activity, Jerry emphasized that by reading the haiku aloud and not seeing the poems in writing when selecting the ones we like, different strengths of the poems may stand out. The poems that sound good are the ones that will get the highest number of votes rather than the ones that look good on paper. Jerry suggested we view the kukai as an exercise rather than a competition. “It is a good way to see how others respond to what you are writing,” he said. After everyone submitted haiku on note cards, Patrick Gallagher kindly volunteered to read through the whole stack of poems out loud. On the second read-through, we began to take notes on which poems we liked more than others. On the third time through, we marked our top three poems. It proved to be a challenge to limit our selections to only three poems, as there were a number of excellent haiku to choose from. Fay tallied the votes as we indicated our votes by raising our hands for our top three choices. The winning haiku by Renée Owen received 10 votes, far surpassing all of the other poems. Other poets whose entries attracted high votes were Betty Arnold, Garry Gay, Carol Steele, Mariko Kitakubo, and Peggy Heinrich.

When some of the winning poems were written on the board, the line breaks and punctuation became the subject of discussion. Some of the things that might have distracted from the flow of a poem when viewed in writing were not noticed when read aloud. Several people gave suggestions on the use of em-dashes in haiku. John Thompson said a dash at the end of a line in a haiku is like a traffic signal; some corners need one, some don’t. Garry noted that the dash gives you a moment to ponder within a poem. Carolyn said to use the em-dash if needed to tell the reader not to read through to the next line without a pause. The dash can help signal that the two parts of a haiku are meant to be juxtaposed rather than combined in one continuous flow of words.

January 22 Meeting

The Haiku Poets of Northern California gathered for our first quarterly meeting of the year on January 22. As always, we began the meeting with a round of introductions and poems. The meeting was well attended in spite of the occasional heavy downpour and the local favorite San Francisco 49ers in a playoff game that same afternoon.

Alison Woolpert, an award-winning haiku poet and president of the Yuki Teikei Haiku Society, was the featured reader. A resident of Santa Cruz, Alison includes the rich natural beauty of that area in her haiku. Having taught school for many years, references to the classroom and a wry sense of humor are also present in her work.

Yuki Teikei Haiku Society

The society held a winter holiday party at the home of Patricia Machmiller on December 10. The members exchanged holiday card haiga and enjoyed the dinner and holiday cheer provided by the attendees. As often happens we were delighted to have members of the SoCal Haiku Study Group attending, and many other charming guests.

In January those who attended the meeting at the Hotel of the San Jose History Center wrote New Years haiku on a ginko in the grounds of the History Center, then participated in a kukai.

A good deal of energy of the society is being directed to the Haiku Pacific Rim conference to be held in September in conjunction with the society’s annual retreat at Asilomar; see page 29 in this issue for details.

Ten people attended the autumn ginko walk at the Los Angeles Arboretum in Arcadia, California: Peggy Castro, Greg Longenecker, James Won, Denise, Lindy Hill, Taura Scott, Kathabela Wilson, Deborah P Kolodji, Don Baird, and Josh Liberman.

The group met at the Peacock Café before walking down to the jungle garden and around the arboretum lake. We examined turtles, graffiti in a bamboo grove, a peacock digging a hole and listened to the honks of Canada geese. We returned to the cafe, wrote haiku, ate lunch, and shared what we had written.

October 15, 2011

The October meeting at the Pacific Asia Museum was attended by Lynn All- good, Maury Garnholz, Bonnie, Kathabela Wilson, Kimberly Esser, Liz Goetz, Greg Longenecker, Phyllis Collins, James Won, Ashley Baldwin, Bill Hart, and Debbie Kolodji.

The following books were shared: Debbie brought The Haiku Anthology edited by Cor van den Heuvel, Chiyo-Ni: Woman Haiku Master by Patricia Donegan and Yoshie Ishibashi, Haiku Volume 4 Autumn-Winter by R.H. Blyth, Gatherings edited by Stanford M. Forrester, Wing Beats: British Birds in Haiku edited by John Burlow & Matthew Paul, From Leaf to Leaf (the 2010 Seabeck Haiku Getaway Anthology), and the latest issue of Modern Haiku. James brought the latest issue of Frogpond and Maury brought an issue of Prune Juice.

Meeting participants either read from their own haiku or from one of the books during the haiku sharing portion of the meeting. After the haiku sharing, there was a kigo discussion. First, the group examined the kigo “pumpkin,” creating a list of everything that the word “pumpkin” brought to mind: pie, cinnamon/fall spice, knives, Jack o’lantern, plastic jack o’lantern, soup, strings — sticky, rotating seeds, decorations, straw, display at grocery stores, roadside stand, scarecrow, nuts and seeds, patch, sleepy hollow, toothy grin, pepitos, rot, pulp, burnt lid, Linus and the Great Pumpkin, gush and mush, squish and slimy.

Then, the group created a list of other October kigo: fallen leaves, Halloween, cold feet in morning, first frost, fallen silk floss blossoms, blankets/quilts, owl calls, leaf litter, morning dew, cold rain, and dry wind. The group then had thirty minutes to brainstorm the other kigo privately and write haiku either from the pumpkin list or the general October kigo list. This was followed by a kukai from the haiku written.
November 19, 2011

Patricia Machmiller flew down from San Jose and was the special guest speaker for the November 2011 SCHSG meeting. Immediately prior to the meeting, Kathabela and Rick Wilson hosted a brunch in their home, where Patricia performed a reading of her haiku, accompanied by Rick on flute.

Afterwards, we reconvened at the Pacific Asia Museum for an expanded meeting. The following people attended: Patricia Machmiller, Wendy Wright, Debbie Kolodji, Peggy Castro, Elva Lauter, Marcia Behar, Margaret-Hehman Smith, Liz Goetz, Greg Longenecker, Bill Hart, Robert Floum, Phyllis Collins, Genie Nakano, Bonnie, Maury Garnholz, Lynn Allgood, Amir Sapiro, Billie Dee, Ellen Ko, Ashley Baldon, Karen Klingman, Kathabela Wilson, and Sharon Rizk.

After a read-around of haiku, Wendy introduced Patricia, who presented a workshop on kigo. Patricia asked “what makes autumn, autumn?” and asked participants to list the feelings they had of autumn.

Responses included: “function of light, angle of sun is too low,” “I look forward to autumn – summer is too hot, then it is too cold,” “fall is muted out here in California, I feel a loss of the fall I had back east,” “refreshing, dryness, the first time you hear leaves rattle,” “I see fall as changes – I lost my father in the fall, I met my husband in the fall,” “light hitting leaves,” “air smells different,” “more depths to colors,” “autumn as a beginning.”

Next, Patricia read a list of words/phrases and participants were asked to vote on what season, if any, the word/phrase evoked. There was some discussion following the results, for example, the majority of people thought “raven” had no season, except for Edgar Allen Poe fans who thought “raven” evoked winter.

Anthology Readings

On Sunday, November 20, the Southern California Haiku Study Group launched their new anthology, Scent of Rain, with a reading in the Pacific Asia Museum auditorium. Even though it was raining very heavily, over 45 people attended the reading, including poets who drove up from San Diego and poets who walked several blocks in the downpour. Readers included Don Baird, Ashley Baldon, Marcia Behar, Peggy Castro, Phyllis Collins, Billie Dee, Marcyn Del Clements, Paul Dutton, Kimberly Esser, Kendall Evans, Linda Galloway, William Hart, Margaret Hehman-Smith, D.J. Keddy, Deborah P Kolodji, Gregory Longenecker, Janis Lukstein, Frances McConnel, Naia, Genie Nakano, Beki Reese, Brosnan Rhodes, Susan Rogers, Dan Spurgeon, Kath Abel Wilson, and Wendy Wright. The poets were accompanied by Rick Wilson on flute and Kathabela Wilson on percussion.

Scent of Rain was edited by Billie Dee and is perfect bound, featuring the work of 62 poets, including poems in Spanish with English translations. The collection emphasizes the unique climate and geography, and rich cultural diversity of Southern California. Dinner at El Cholo’s Café in Pasadena followed the reading, with 21 people attending the dinner.

An anthology reading was also held in San Diego on December 3, 2011. Readers included Billie Dee, D.J. Keddy, Karen Stromberg, Una Hynum, Megan Webster, Naia, Seretta Martin, Stevie Strang, Kathabela Wilson, and Deborah P Kolodji. Rick and Kathabela Wilson accompanied the readers on flute and percussion. Dinner followed at The Field, a local Irish pub.

December 17, 2011

Haiku: A Poet’s Guide by Lee Gurga was the main reference book for the December meeting at the Pacific Asia Museum. The group discussed the haiku examples from pages 33-38 in the chapter entitled “Haiku Moment, Context, and Order of Perception.”

The following books were brought for the haiku sharing segment of the meeting: The Haiku Anthology edited by Cor van den Heuvel, Knots: Southeastern European Haiku Anthology, Beyond my View by Joyce Clement, The Horse with One Blue Eye by Cherie Hunter Day, Walking on the Bridge by Martin Shea, and the Millikan Haiku Anthology.

Participants were Debbie Kolodji, Elva Lauter, Kendall Evans, Kathabela Wilson, Greg Longenecker, James Won, Phyllis Collins, Kimberly Esser, Don Baird, Adam Marshall, Lynn Allgood, Ashley Baldon, Robert Floum, Jie Tian, and Con-suelo Marshall. The meeting ended with an anonymous haiku workshop.

January 7, 2012

Tom and Wendy Wright once more hosted the Southern California Haiku Study Group post-holiday party at their home in Long Beach. The party started off with a haiku mixer game. Upon arrival, party guests were given a slip of paper that contained 1/2 of a classical Japanese haiku by Basho, Busan, Issa, Shiki, or Chiyo-Ni. The goal of the game was to find the person who was holding the slip of paper that contained the other 1/2 of the haiku.

When participants thought they had a match, they turned in a card with the proposed match and drew new game pieces. If they thought they knew who wrote the haiku, they also wrote it on the card. If it was a match, the slips of paper were returned to the bag and back into play. Prizes were given out. In addition to matches, prizes were given for the best mash-ups.

We had one winning match—Greg Longenecker and Naia correctly matched up the following haiku and attributed it to the correct author, Chiyo-Ni.
on the ebb-tide beach
everything we pick up is alive
— Chiyo-Ni

Most of the haiku translations in the game came from Essential Haiku by Robert Haas, the Haiku Handbook by William Higginson, or Chiyo-Ni: Woman Haiku Master by Patricia Donegan and Yoshie Ishibashi.

At the end of the party, everyone gathering in Wendy's upstair[s] writing studio room where everyone shared the haiku New Year's card they brought.

January 21, 2012

The January Pacific Asia Museum meeting was shorter than normal due to a wedding at the museum. Elva Lauter, Marcia Behar, Greg Longenecker, Kathabela Wilson, Genie Nakano, Kimberly Esser, Robert Floum, Peggy Castro, Mira Mitararak, Janis Lukstein, James Won, Maggie, Amanda, Naia, Lynn Allgood, and Debbie Kolodji attended.

The following January word list was generated for the writing section of the workshop: Martin Luther King Day, cold rain, paper white narcissus, Queen's tears, stray cat cries louder, winter wind, Japanese magnolia, shivering petals, snow flowering pear, half-uprooted tree stumps, hopeful dreams/new beginnings, January full moon, morning frost.

January 28, 2012

Ruth Nolan and Deborah P Kolodji led a haiku walk on January 28, 2012 at the Coachella Valley Preserve, near Palm Desert, California. Attendees were Patrick Gallagher, Joanne Frey, Marcy Del Clements, Peggy Castro, Cindy Rinne, Consuelo Marshall, Jie Tian, Debbie Kolodji, Ruth Nolan, Greg Longenecker, Sean Kolodji, Ashley Baldwin, Brosnan Rhodes, An Xiao, Billie Dee, Olga Garcia, Julie Brossy, Susan Rogers, Genie Nakano, and Wendy Wright.

It was a lovely day for a walk—the sky was blue, the Gambel's quail were plentiful, and cactus wrens sang in raspy voices from the tops of fan palms. The group walked from the visitor's center in the Thousand Palm Oasis, one of the largest groves of desert fan palms (Washingtonia filifera) in California to the McCallum Oasis, crossing the San Andreas earthquake fault and a desert wash during the two mile adventure.

Poets saw smoke trees, dye weed, indigo bush, cattle spinach, alkali golden-bush, sandpaper plant, palo verde, creosote, honey mesquite, and an octotillo in bloom. They saw a black phoebe and a Northern Flicker, among other birds.

Multiple haiku were written by the 20 people who travelled to the Coachella Valley from a wide variety of places, ranging from the border of Mexico to San Francisco!

February 18, 2012

Naia was the featured reader for the February meeting at the Pacific Asia Museum. She read for 20 minutes from a selection of her haiku. Naia's performance was carefully crafted to flow from season to season, starting each section with a haibun, followed by a grouping of haiku appropriate for the season, ending each season with a selection of her haiga.

Gregory J. Longenecker presented a program on "Basho: His Life and Haiku" for about 45 minutes. He prepared a handout which included a timeline of Basho's life and a selection of his haiku, arranged by date. He asked attendees to read either an entry from the timeline or one of Basho's haiku, and then Greg expanded on the timeline entries and discussed each haiku in the context of Basho's life.

The meeting also included a read-around of haiku, including some haiku from the following books: In Pine Shade (the 2011 HSA anthology), Carving Darkness (the 2011 red moon anthology), The Complete Basho by Jane Reichhold, The Master Haiku Poet Matsuo Basho by Makoto Ueda, The River of Heaven by Robert Aitken, Bottle Rockets: the Cafe Issue, and Basho's Journey translated by David Landis Barnhill.

Upcoming Events:

March 17 at 2 pm, Anonymous Haiku Workshop at the Pacific Asia Museum, Pasadena, CA; March 31 at 2 pm, Haiku Workshop, Huntington Beach Library, Huntington Beach, CA; and April 17 at 7 pm, National Haiku Day Reading, location TBA.

Do you have news?

See page 32 for details on sending news to Ripples. The deadline for the next issue is May 1, 2012. A huge thank you to anyone who submits early.

Please note that submissions of regional news should focus on the haiku-related events that happen in your area. This is a great way for others to get ideas for their haiku gatherings. It also serves as a record of what has taken place of significance in the haiku community. A listing of individual publication credits does not serve this purpose. High quality photographs are always welcome. Remember to include a note identifying those in the picture as well as the name of the photographer.

Turtle Light Press 2012 Haiku Chapbook Competition Winner

The winner of the third Turtle Light Press biennial haiku chapbook competition is Graham High’s The Window That Closes, a threnody for his mother that movingly follows her illness and death over the course of a year. Honorable Mention was awarded to Duro Jaiye’s There Was a Time, which explores the African American experience of slavery and its aftermath in a short series of powerful poems.

The two judges were Kwame Dawes, an English professor at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and the editor-in-chief of Prairie Schooner, as well as Rick Black, an international award-winning haiku poet and founder of the press.

High’s collection opens with a poem that demonstrates his deft use of language to introduce the ensuing drama:

high hospital bed
my mother and I must cross
the rift of waiting

High’s book demonstrates a complexity of language, a variety of syntactical structures and a keen sense of pacing. But most importantly, despite the sad inevitability of his mother’s death, the poems manage to draw us into a pattern of reflection and memory through the close and moving study of details surrounding their lives in the hospital and at home.

A painter and sculptor who lives in London, England, High came to haiku quite late, having written mainstream poetry since the 1970s. He entered both of TLP’s prior contests before being named this year’s winner. He has published six haiku collections and been editor of the British Haiku Society’s journal, Blithe Spirit.

Turtle Light Press, a small publisher based in Arlington, Virginia, plans to release The Window That Closes in the spring/summer of 2013. For more information on this and other projects, please visit Turtle Light Press online at www.turtlelightpress.com or follow them on Twitter @TurtleLightNews.

HSA Contests

Nicholas A. Virgilio Memorial Haiku Contest

Founded by the Sacred Heart Church in Camden, NJ, and sponsored by the Nick Virgilio Haiku Association in memory of Nicholas A. Virgilio, a charter member of the Haiku Society of America, who died in 1989. The Haiku Society of America cosponsors the contest, provides judges, and publishes the results in Frogpond and on the HSA website.

Deadline: In hand March 25, 2011

Eligibility: Any student in grades 7 through 12 enrolled in school as of September 2011 may enter.

Regulations: Submit up to three haiku per student. All haiku must be previously unpublished, original work, and not entered in any other contest or submitted elsewhere for publication. Please follow the guidelines carefully. Publication is defined as an appearance in a printed book, magazine, or journal (sold or given away), or in any online journal that presents edited periodic content. The appearance of poems in online discussion lists or personal websites is not considered publication. Judges will be asked to disqualify any haiku that they have seen before.

Submissions: Each haiku must be on three separate 3” x 5” cards. The haiku must appear on the front of each card; your name, address, age, grade level, and school (please include the school address) must appear on the back of (only) one of the cards for each haiku. Please do not send self-addressed stamped envelope with your entries. All winners will be notified. Winning haiku and commentaries will appear in Frogpond. Do not use staples for any purpose. Failure to follow this format will make it impossible to judge an entry and may result in the disqualification of a submission without notification.

Entry fee: None.

Submit entries to:

Tony Virgilio
Nick Virgilio Haiku Association
1092 Niagara Rd
Camden, NJ 08104-2859.

Adjudication: Judges named by the HSA.

Awards: Six haiku will be selected and each awarded $50. The winning haiku and list of winners will be published in Frogpond and on the HSA website. The high school of each student winner will receive a one-year subscription to Frogpond.

Rights: All rights revert to the authors after publication.

Correspondence: Please keep a copy of your haiku; entries cannot be returned.

Mildred Kanterman Memorial Merit Book Awards for Excellence in Published Haiku, Translation, and Criticism

This award is made possible by Leroy Kanterman, cofounder of the Haiku Society of America, in memory of his wife Mildred Kanterman.

Deadline: In hand March 31, 2011

Eligibility: The contest is open to the public. Books must have been published in 2010 and clearly must contain printed a 2010 ©. An author or publisher may submit more than one title. Books published by HSA officers are eligible for this award.

Submissions: The HSA encourages authors or publishers to proactively submit eligible books, not only so the judge(s) will consider them, but also so that the HSA can add these books to the permanent HSA Archives in the American Haiku Archives at the California State Library. Please send two copies of each book, noting them to be Mildred Kanterman Memorial Merit Book Award entries. Authors or publishers should contact the 1st vice president before the deadline to ascertain that books have been received. In addition, authors and publishers are encouraged to communicate with each other so that duplicate entries are not submitted.

Entry fee: None; however, donations to offset costs are welcome. If including a donation, please make checks/money orders payable in U.S. funds to “Haiku Society of America.” Submit entries or nominations to:

Michael Dylan Welch
HSA 1st Vice President
22230 NE 28th Place
Sammamish, WA 98074-6408

Adjudication: The names of the judge(s) will be announced after the awards are decided.

Awards: $500 for first place, $100 for second place and $50 for third. The first place award money is made possible by the generosity of Leroy Kanterman in memory of his wife Mildred. The list of winners will be published in Frogpond and on the HSA website.

Rights: Books submitted will remain the property of the HSA, and one copy will be deposited in the permanent HSA Archives in the American Haiku Archives at the California State Library.

Robert Spiess Memorial Haiku Award Competition for 2012

Modern Haiku is pleased to announce the Robert Spiess Memorial Haiku Award Competition for 2012. The purpose of this competition is to honor the life and work of Bob Spiess, editor of Modern Haiku from 1978 to his death on March 13, 2002.

Theme: Haiku are to be written in the spirit of the following “Speculation” (Robert Spiess, A Year’s Speculations on Haiku, Modern Haiku Press, 1995):

Haiku have three forms or manifestations: the written, which enters the eye; the spoken, which enters the ear; and the essential …which enters the heart. [Prompted in part by a passage by Sa’in al-Din ibn Turkah.]

Rules: The competition is open to everyone but the staff of Modern Haiku, the competition coordinator, and the judges. Entries must be in English. Each entry must be the original, unpublished work of the author, and should not be under consideration in a contest or for publication elsewhere. For purposes of this competition, appearance of a haiku in an Internet journal, website, blog, or social network is considered publication, but posting haiku on a private e-mail list is not. Of course, entries should not be shared in an Internet journal, website, blog, social network, or haiku list during the term of the competition.

Submission guidelines: Poets may submit a maximum of five haiku written in the spirit of the above speculation. Entries should be typed or printed legibly. Submit three copies of each haiku on plain white 3 x 5 cards or paper. The haiku (one haiku per card) should appear on the face of each card. The poet’s name, mailing address, telephone number, and e-mail address (if any) should appear on one of the three cards, in the upper left-hand corner above the haiku; the other two copies should contain only the haiku. Please keep a copy of your submission; entries will not be returned. Please follow the guidelines carefully: entries that are incomplete or that do not comply with the instructions will be discarded.

Entry fee: $1 per haiku, cash or check (U.S. funds); make checks payable to Modern Haiku.

Send submissions to:

Billie Wilson
1170 Fritz Cove Road
Juneau, AK 99801-8501

Adjudication: Two judges will be selected by Modern Haiku; their names will be announced at the time of the awards. Judging will be double-blind, and the judges will not know the identity of the entrants. Judges’ decisions are final.

Selection criteria: The judges will look for entries that hew to Western norms for haiku as published in Modern Haiku and other leading English-language haiku journals and that best capture the spirit of the theme speculation above. There are no rules as to syllable or line count.

Awards: First Prize: $100 plus a previously-loved copy of The Heron’s Legs (1966, out of print; copy #19 of 335, signed for “Rita and Vern”). Second Prize: $50 plus a copy of Bob’s The Shape of Water (1982); Third Prize: $25 plus a copy of Bob’s Some Sticks and Pebbles (2001). Up to five poets will be awarded Honorable Mentions and each will receive a copy of Bob’s A Year’s Speculations on Haiku (1995).

Notification: Winners will be notified by e-mail or phone before the general announcement. Winning entries will be published in the summer 2012 issue of Modern Haiku and posted on the Modern Haiku website, www.modernhaiku.org, or before July 1, 2012. If you would like a list of the winners, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope (SASE) with your entries. Overseas entrants should provide one U.S. dollar in cash with a self-addressed envelope. These will be mailed when the summer issue of Modern Haiku is released.

Win a Key West Residency: Robert Frost Poetry Contest

Sponsored by The Studios at Key West (“TSKW”), this contest continues a long tradition and honors Robert Frost and encourages the creation of new poetry and haiku.

Deadline: March 15, 2012

Submission Guidelines:
1. Poems may be rhymed or unrhymed, metered or free verse, up to 40 lines.
2. Haiku submitted should meet the following definition: a short poem of no more than 17 syllables (preferably fewer), featuring simple language, clear images rather than abstractions, and emphasizing intuitive depth and resonance rather than open statement of ideas.
3. Two copies of each typed on 8 1/2 x 11 paper and sent by mail or e-mailed in an electronic format. If sent by mail – one typed copy should contain your name and contact information, and one should not include your name/contact information.

Entry fee: $10 per poem.

How to Submit: To enter online, add one item to cart per poem or haiku. Please include the reference number of your receipt within the body of your e-mail. Please submit the poem as a Word attachment and include your contact and payment information in the body of the e-mail but not in the Word document.

To enter by mail, send two copies of each poem/haiku along with a check for $10 per poem/haiku to:

The Studios of Key West
600 White Street
Key West, FL 33040

Winning entries will be announced on April 1 at www.tskw.org.

Awards: First Place: a two-week residency at The Studios of Key West plus $200; Second Place: $100; Third Place: $50. Honorable Mentions will also be selected in each category (poetry and haiku).

Top three entries in each category will be published online at www.tskw.org. Residencies are non-transferrable and will be scheduled with the winner between May 2013 and August 2013.

The Poetry Explosion Newsletter

The Poet Band Company is asking for poetry, max. 40 lines and prose, max. 300 words to be submitted for possible publication in "The Poetry Explosion Newsletter ("The Pen")." Issued quarterly (January, April, July, October). July's issues are dedicated to romantic poetry, October's issues spot light holiday poetry, and all other issues are open to topics of the writer's choice.

We publish poems and prose pertaining to all subjects (love, holidays, current events, etc.) and in any form (sonnets, haiku, rhyme, free and blank verse, etc.). Simultaneous and pre-published submissions are accepted. Bio-sketches are optional. Presently, we are not paying monetarily, but if your works are selected, we'll send you a free copy of the issue in which they (it) appear(s).

Send us your best! All submissions must be typed and of "camera ready" quality. Submit a maximum of five works (a L.S.A.S.E. with correct postage if you want your works that are not accepted for publication to be returned). E-mail submissions are accepted and must include snail-mail address. Note: If sending from another country, please send International Coupons (2 per dollar amount) or a money order or check written in U.S. dollars from a U.S. bank. If you never have been published, this may be your chance! Guidelines are online at: www.thepoetbandcompany.yolasite.com

Violet Press Anthologies

Violet Press is now accepting haiku submissions for three anthologies slated for publication in 2013 and 2014: "Haiku on the Dandelion" (to include the dilemma and beauty of the dandelion, as well as the broader topic of weeds in the landscape); "Haiku on the Chickens" (to include the chicken, as well as the broader topic of the barnyard); and "Haiku on the Pigeon" (to include pigeons, as well as the broader topic of the world of the pigeon). Contributors will retain the copyright on their work and will receive two copies of the published volume. The deadline for submissions is April 30, 2012. Please mail your submissions to Violet Press at P.O. Box 25156, Alexandria, Virginia 22313; or e-mail info@violetpress.com. For more information and guidelines contact: info@VioletPress.com.

New Haibun Editor at Modern Haiku

Roberta Beary has joined the editorial staff of Modern Haiku as haibun editor. A longtime writer and editor of haibun, Roberta's essay, "the lost weekend: an editor's brief perspective on haibun submissions as viewed through the prism of film noir titles" appears in Frogpond 34:3 2011. Her most recent haibun workshop was a feature of the HSA quarterly meeting this past December in the Baltimore metro area. More information about Roberta's work can be found on her webpage, www.robertabeary.com.

Volunteer at 100th District of Columbia Cherry Blossom Festival

The Haiku Society of America will have a booth at the upcoming 100th D.C. Cherry Blossom Street Festival and is looking for folks to help out. It could be a great time to visit the nation’s capital, enjoy the cherry blossoms, socialize with fellow haiku poets and tell a broader audience about haiku.

The festival, which will be held on Saturday, April 14, rain or shine, runs from 11 – 6 p.m. You are welcome to sign up for an hour or longer. In particular, we could use help with set up and break down before/after the official festival times.

If you love haiku, have always wanted to see the D.C. cherry blossoms, like working with people and want to pitch in, please contact Rick Black: rick@turtlelightpress.com or call him at 703-241-4127 for more details. Hope to see you there!

Songs of the Soul Poetry & Sacred Music Festival in Bay Area

On Friday, March 16 through Sunday, March 18, 2012, a weekend of poetry readings, poetry contest, musical performances, and heart-centered conversation will take place in San Rafael, CA. On Friday March 16 (7-9:30pm), Haiku Poets of Northern California Member Renée Owen will perform a 45-minute selection of haiku and haibun, with the accompaniment of singer/songwriter Brian Foster on a variety of musical instruments. For more information, please visit Songs of the Soul at the IAS website: http://ias.org/. You can also contact Renée Owen at reneeowen@sbcglobal.net.
5th Haiku Pacific Rim Conference 2012

September 5–9, 2012

Haiku Pacific Rim 2012 hosted by the Yuki Teikei Haiku Society and the Haiku Poets of Northern California will be held in Pacific Grove, California, at Asilomar Seashore and Conference Center. Asilomar is situated directly on the Pacific Coast in the beautiful natural setting of the Monterey Peninsula of California. The annual Yuki Teikei Haiku Retreat will be combined with the Haiku Pacific Rim Conference, which features the participation of haiku poets from the nations around the Pacific rim: Japan, Australia, New Zealand, India, United States, and Canada, among others.

The keynote speaker will be Dr. Akito Arima, haiku master of the Ten’i Haiku Group of Japan, world-renowned physicist and former Minister of Education in Japan. He was named a person of cultural merit and Grand Cordon of the Order of the Rising Sun, and in 2010 was awarded the Order of Culture by the Emperor of Japan. His haiku collection, Ten’i (“Providence”), received the Japanese Haiku Poets’ Association Prize for 1987. In 1990 he started a group under the same name, Ten’i, which in less than a decade became one of Japan’s most prominent haiku clubs.

Dr. Arima has also been instrumental in promoting the internationalization of haiku. He has served as the president of the Haiku International Association and has helped organize international haiku events, including the second joint conference of Japan’s Haiku International Association and the Haiku Society of America in Tokyo in 1997.

Dr. Arima’s close connection to the U.S. began in 1959 when he came to the Fermi Lab in Batavia, Illinois as a Full-bright scholar. In the early 1970s he returned to the U.S. to work as a professor at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Dr. Arima’s collection of poetry, Einstein’s Century, translated by Emiko Miyashita and Lee Gurga (Brooks Books, 2001), which contains many haiku with an international flavor, will be available for purchase at the conference.

The conference, sponsored by the Poetry Center San Jose, will also feature haiku lectures by distinguished scholars, readings, workshops, renku writing, and ample time to socialize. This will be the fifth Haiku Pacific Rim conference, and will again provide the unique opportunity to meet face-to-face with haiku poets you may already know by name from across the U.S. and the countries of the Pacific Rim.

The first HPR conference took place in Long Beach, CA in 2002 under the guidance of HPR founder, Jerry Ball. The second conference was in Gifu, Japan under the direction of Professor Ikuyo Yoshimura; the third conference took place in Matsuyama, Japan, organized by Minako Noma; and the fourth HPR, directed by Beverley George, was in Terrigal, north of Sydney, Australia.

Accommodations at the Asilomar conference center can be reserved when you register for the conference. Both individual rooms and shared accommodations are available. Please visit http://haikupacificrim2012.wordpress.com for updated information, registration forms, and conference details.

We look forward to seeing you there!

Haiku in the Tea House

The Yuki Teikei Haiku Society’s annual Haiku in the Tea House reading will take place on Saturday, May 12, 2012 from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the San Jose Japanese Friendship Garden Tea House, 1490 Senter Road, San Jose. The event is co-sponsored by YTHS, Poetry Center San Jose, and San Jose Parks, Recreation, and Neighborhood Services. The featured readers will be poets Naia, Neal Whitman, Susan Antolin, and Bev Momoi, followed by an open-microphone haiku reading.

Cradle of American Haiku Festival 3

The Cradle of American Haiku Festival 3 will take place in Mineral Point, Wisconsin, July 20 – 22. We will have three fun-filled days of poetry, inspiration and sharing. The festival will feature American Haiku magazine, it’s beginnings, struggles and successes. Don Eulert, one of the founders of the magazine, will join presenters to share his memories and his continued success in haiku.

Friday will feature registration, an opening reception and open readings. Saturday will begin with the farmers’ market, and will continue with workshops, panel discussions and lectures designed for both beginning and advanced haiku poets. Saturday evening will feature a Midwest style picnic and open readings.

Sunday will begin with a ginko at Pendarvis and a reading of haiku inspired by the ginko at the new Pendarvis Education Center. The Festival will end with lunch, more readings and fond farewells at the Gray Dog Deli. Watch the website for more information. The Foundry Books will again be displaying and selling books for the poets. For more information, contact Gayle Bull at info@foundrybooks.com or phone 608-987-4363.

Questions or concerns?
The executive committee and the regional coordinators welcome your feedback and suggestions. If you want to get more involved in the Haiku Society of America or have ideas for how we might better pursue our mission of promoting the writing and appreciation of haiku in English, please let us know.
Got News?

May 1 deadline for the next issue

Please submit news for Ripples to your regional coordinator (see p. 27) or directly to Susan Antolin via e-mail at susantolin@gmail.com by May 1, 2012 for inclusion in the next issue of Ripples. Meeting the submission deadline will help ensure your news makes it into the next issue.

What to send

Let us know what is happening in haiku in your area. What workshops, programs, readings, or performances have taken place? Do you have a new haiku publication you would like to publicize? Let us know! Photos are also welcome. Please identify the subject and let us know who should get credit for taking the picture.

What not to send

Poems that were not the subject of a workshop or discussion. Please do not send a poem by everyone who attended a meeting. If you would like to see more of your poems in print, please submit to our world-class journal Frogpond (see the previous page for Frogpond editor Francine Banwarth’s contact information).

Thank you for your help in making Ripples a useful source of information for all HSA members!
